Cabinet Policy Not Question At Bren Inquiry

Gen. LaFleche Says He Did Not Know Men in Hahn Group

Answers Drew

OTTAWA (CP)—Merits of private and government manufacture of armaments and government policy on the question do not come within the scope of the Bren gun inquiry, Hon. J. L. Ralston, government counsel, argued before Mr. Justice H. H. Davis, royal commissioner conducting the inquiry, today.

In this he took issue with Lieut.-Col. George Drew, K.C., who contended the question was before the commission and had a definite bearing on the extent to which the public interest was protected. The commissioner said he would not rule on the point at the moment.

The question arose as Lieut.-Col. Drew began his cross-examination of Major-General L. R. LaFleche, deputy Minister of National Defence, on steps leading up to the conclusion of a contract with the John Inglis Company of Toronto for 7,000 Bren light machine guns. Major J. E. Hahn is president of the company, which also has a contract to make 5,000 Bren guns for the British War Office.

Lieut.-Col. Drew is the author of an article in MacLean's Magazine which criticized the contract and led to the inquiry.

Col. Ralston said the question of policy and the reasons for it was one for the government and Parliament and not for the commissioner. His instructions were to investigate contracts before him.

HAHN'S GROUP

Gen. LaFleche said he did not know who the associates of Maj. James E. Hahn were in October, 1936, when negotiations for the contract started and was not sure he knew now. He knew one man was a "Mr. Cameron," who had a contract with the department for many years.

He was not aware who they were when he submitted the contract to the interdepartmental committee on the control of profits in armament contracts, beyond Mr. Cameron. The associates with whom the witness was impressed were not financial associates but the assistants who had worked under Hahn in other manufacturing enterprises.

Gen. LaFleche could not remember whether he had dinner with Hahn, Hugh Plaxton, M.P., and Major-General A. C. Caldwell, master-general of the Ordnance, on the night of March 17, 1938.

That was the night the interdepartmental committee approved the contract at a session which lasted until 3 a.m. He promised to check the records of the Rideau Club and inform counsel this afternoon.

DINNER CHECK

Lieut.-Col. Drew said surely the witness could remember with whom he dined on that night.

"Who paid the bill?" asked Gen. LaFleche.

"I don't know. I hope you didn't," said Col. Drew.

Priests Held By Vienna Police

Several in Custody; Salzburg Archbishop's Palace Attacked

VIENNA (AP)—Six Catholic priests and an employee of Theodor Cardinal Innitzer were under arrest today in continuation of what Nazis declared were measures against the "treasonable" attitude of the clergy toward the Nazi Party and Chancellor Hitler personally.

Those arrested, Nazis said, were suspected of organizing a demonstration before Saint Stephen's Cathedral October 7 during which Catholic youths chanted, after the Nazi fashion, "we want to see our bishop," using the word "bishop" instead of the customary "Fuehrer."

The arrests, together with cancellation of the right of Dr. Sigmund Waitz, Archbishop of Salzburg, to enter public schools to supervise religious education, go beyond measures announced by Joseph Buerckel, Nazi commissioner from Austria, as retaliation against a "clergy that plays politics."

WINDOWS BROKEN

SALZBURG, Germany (AP)—Anti-clerical demonstrators broke windows in the Archbishop of Salzburg's palace last night and shouted derision of the Catholic archbishop, Dr. Sigmund Waitz, whose province includes a large part of former Austria.

The demonstration started with derisive whistling under the palace windows in the early evening.

Soon the demonstrators were reinforced by a crowd which marched from the city's outskirts to the archbishop's residence shouting "away with Waitz."

At the climax of the outbreak missiles were thrown, smashing numerous windows in the palace. (The attack was similar to the outbreak in Vienna October 8 when an angry mob stormed the palace of Theodor Cardinal Innitzer and made a bonfire of furniture hurled from the cardinal's residence.)

Dominion Homes for Refugees

LONDON (CP)—The Canadian government has been informed by the United Kingdom government of the gravity of the refugee problem in Czechoslovakia with a view to promoting a mass movement of anti-Nazi Sudeten Germans to Canada.

The figure of 20,000 is mentioned as the share of the four Dominions—Canada, Australia, South Africa and New Zealand—in a world-wide effort to repatriate these people who fled into Czechoslovakia rather than live under Nazi rule. For the most

PROTECTION FOR NEWS SOURCES

Bill in New York State; Proof People Rely Most on Newspapers

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Protection of news sources is to be sought from the legislature by New York state editors.

Prepared under the direction of a committee of the state Society of Newspaper Editors, a "news confidence" bill will be introduced in the legislature this winter.

A discussion of publishing trends revealed that newspapers were flooded with telephone calls during the recent European crisis and this was taken by most editors to indicate newspapers still hold top place in the news field.

It was pointed out in the discussion news broadcasts by radio served mostly as appetizers for more complete news reports in newspapers. Editors reported great increases in circulation during the crisis.

Martial Law in Holy Land

JERUSALEM (AP)—Sir Harold MacMichael, commander-in-chief, tonight placed all Palestine under army control.

Earlier dispatches told how British troops had doubled guard strength last Arab rebels attack the modern districts of Jerusalem after a night of terrorist bombings in the old section of the city.

Columns of British armored cars and truck loads of police patrolled streets outside the old city's walls. (The new city, grown up since 1858, lies chiefly to the northwest of the ancient citadel.)

The situation in the old city became so critical shortly before last midnight authorities had to rush military and police reinforcements to protect the Jewish and Armenian quarters, which were understood to be the only parts of the old city under complete government control.

Other troops guarded every approach to the city.

Rev. W. C. Gemmill To Be College Dean

VANCOUVER (CP)—Rev. W. C. Gemmill of Metchosis, Vancouver Island, has been named successor to the late Rev. C. W. Hedley as dean of residence at the Anglican Theological College operated here in conjunction with University of British Columbia.

Until his retirement a few years ago, Mr. Gemmill was a missionary in Japan.

Predicted War Debts Will Be Paid to U.S.

PARIS (AP)—The financial newspaper, Agence Economique et Financiere, predicted today that British and French war debts to the United States would be settled after the American elections November 8.

The newspaper, close to the ministry of finance, declared France then "would, moreover, benefit from the possibility of obtaining important credits" in the United States.

France owes more than $4,250,000,000. Great Britain's debt is approximately $5,000,000,000.

Acting Chief Testifies at Murder Trial

Sergt. Tells of Visit to Colebourne Home to Investigate Tragedy

As the trial of Mrs. Vera Colebourne on a charge of murdering her husband, Sidney William Colebourne, on April 1, proceeded at the Victoria assizes today, Sergeant H. F. C. Reston, acting chief of Oak Bay Police, took the witness stand to outline in detail his findings at the Colebourne home on the morning of the tragedy.

Sergeant Reston gave similar evidence to that given by members of the Patrick family yesterday regarding Mrs. Colebourne's visit to the Patrick home at 2238 Bowker Avenue. Mrs. Colebourne was in a very agitated state and trembling violently when she related to him her story of an intruder in the house, an explosion and her inability to light the lights, the officer said. Mrs. Colebourne told him the prowler appeared to be stealing paint, four cans of which she said were in a clothes closet.

INSPECTED HOUSE

Witness told the court of his inspection of the Colebourne house at 2230 Bowker Avenue with the Patricks, father and son, and discovery of two paint cans, one spilled on the approach to the house and the other resting before the screen door. That can had had to be moved before the screen door would open, he stated. The front door was ajar with the key on the outside of the lock. The back door, he said later, was closed and bolted from the inside.

Witness told of finding the body on a couch in the bedroom. The body was slightly warm, he said. Witness searched for a firearm, but found none in the bedroom. There was no indication of disturbance in the clothes closet off the bedroom, where women's and children's wearing apparel hung. There was no paint in the cupboard, he added. Nor was there floor space behind the garments hanging there, the floor being taken up with trunks and bags.

With the exception of the living-room window, which he found about 20 inches open, all other windows were secured, he stated.

"The back door was closed and bolted from inside," he said. Other than by the back door and the front door, which he found ajar, there were no regular means of access to the house, he added.

When witness returned to the Patrick home, after the late Chief John Syme had arrived at the Colebourne bungalow, he questioned Mrs. Colebourne about the family's actions the preceding night and she had told him they had been out and returned at 10:30 and she retired at 11.

Mrs. Colebourne told witness she had awakened and seen Mr. Colebourne asleep on the couch. Later she had been startled out of sleep by an explosion and had seen a man's arm reaching across her with a flashlight in the hand. The man, she said, had been short and was wearing a checkered mackinaw coat, the sergeant testified.

SAW FOOTPRINTS

Witness said on return to the house he saw imprints by a sawhorse like those made by a man's boot. Those prints had been left to the late Chief Syme and Inspector J. F. C. B. Vance to investigate, he said.

In reply to question by R. C. Lowe, defence counsel, he stated he had not mentioned the footprints at previous hearings. They struck him as being important, he said.

Dr. McNeven, who arrived about 20 minutes after him, had moved the bed adjoining the couch to approach the deceased's head, but the bed had been replaced after his inspection, the sergeant said.

Thomas A. Waterworth, photographer, identified and described photographs taken at the Colebourne home.

Yesterday's evidence in Colebourne trial will be found on page 5.

QUEEN MARY DOCKS WITHOUT TUGS

Biggest Ship Performs Feat as New York Crews on Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—The Queen Mary, largest ship afloat, docked—in perfect weather—under her own power today because of the New York harbor tugboat strike. The liner brought 1,601 passengers and $25,000,000 in gold from Europe.

Commodore Robert Irving, asked how he felt about docking without tugs, said:

"I looked at my Christopher's Medal (St. Christopher is the patron saint of travelers) and asked if I could make it, and he told me to go to it, and I did."

The berthing was completed in 34 minutes from the time the vessel arrived off the end of her pier.

One line snapped as the ship began use of her winches to bring her to the side of her pier, but four others were immediately put out and the propellers started. The Queen Mary drifted 75 feet before she was brought about.

HOSPITAL TAX IN TORONTO STUDIED

City Council Considers Possible Meal Levy To Meet Deficits

TORONTO (CP)—Possibility of the inauguration of a special hospital tax on hotel and restaurant meals as in Montreal or a municipal amusement tax was considered today as Toronto's aldermen sought a solution of the problem of recurring hospital deficits.

The city council late last night voted to request the board of control to continue its investigation of deficits, created in four hospitals, and report its recommendations to the next council meeting. Hospital authorities have declared services may be curtailed unless funds are raised to meet the deficits.

Total deficits of the Western, the Women's College, the Mount Sinai and the Mothercraft Society hospitals are listed at approximately $114,000. The deficits were incurred through treatment of indigent patients. Mayor Ralph C. Day said 66,191 patients had been cared for during the last hospital year.

Czech-Hungarian Talks on New Basis

Change of Scene For Returned Territorial Negotiations

PRAGUE (AP)—The Czechoslovak press today forecast immediate resumption—possibly day-of-Slovak-Hungarian negotiations for settlement of Hungary's territorial demands.

Censored dispatches said there were two possible locations for a new conference to take up issues involved in negotiations that were broken off October 13. Sites under consideration were: Some Hungarian city, since the previous unsuccessful negotiations were held in the Czechoslovak portion of Komarom, and Bratislava, Czechoslovak city on the Danube, adjacent to both Austrian Germany and Hungary.

MURDER PLOT IN BRAZIL REVEALED

Two Men Accused of Part in Movement To Assassinate Officials

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—The Ministry of Justice today announced discovery of a revolutionary plot to assassinate "high authorities" and establish a reign of terror in Brazil.

Two men now in prison on charges of participating in the abortive Fascist uprising May 11 were accused of being involved in the new plot.

Those named by the justice ministry were Belmiro Valverde and former Lieut. Severo Fournier of the Brazilian army.

In the May 11 uprising President Getulio Vargas and his family were beleaguered in the presidential palace for several hours until the outbreak had been suppressed.

Nazis Shifted From Military, Says G. G. Rumrich

Trial at New York

By MARY ELIZABETH PLUMMER

Associated Press Staff Writer
NEW YORK — The United States government's star spy case witness—Guenther Gustav Rumrich, army deserter who turned secret agent—told Judge John C. Knox and a federal court jury today that Nazi Germany's interests shifted from American military secrets late in 1937 to industrial information.

He was so informed by two of the agents with whom he had contact, Rumrich testified. One of those, he said, he knew only as "Wiegand," the other was "Schmidt."

"Wiegand," he said, apparently was important, for he showed him a photograph of himself allegedly taken at the German embassy in Washington purportedly with Ambassador Hans Dieckhoff and Captain Fritz Wiedemann, adjutant to Chancellor Hitler.

"Wiegand," he said, first apprised him of Germany's shifting interest from military to industrial information, particularly that kind which had to do with United States rearmament.

"Schmidt" later asked him if he knew of the new orders, he said.

THREE DEFENDANTS

Those on trial before the jury in the biggest espionage hearing in the United States since the Great War was Johanna Hoffmann, 26, former beautician on the German liner Europa; Otto Hermann Voss, 36, naturalized United States citizen born in Germany, and Erich Glaser, 28, naturalized citizen born in Germany and former U.S. army soldier.

Rumrich, Chicago-born son of Austrian parents, was a United States army sergeant until he deserted. He was indicted with the others but pleaded guilty at the start of the trial. He is 27.

Part of Rumrich's story to the jury today told of a mysterious person, "Sanders," to whom he was supposed to turn over United States army and navy information. The witness said Sanders was "very critical" of his progress.

Sanders was reputed to be an assistant to the chief of the naval intelligence office at Bremen, Germany.

LETTERS SENT

Avoiding the eyes of Fraulein Hoffmann, Glaser and Voss, Rumrich related how he had exchanged letters with Sanders.

Sanders, said the witness, asked him to send him two catalogues of the United States government printing office with a list of all army and aviation publications. Rumrich supplied the catalogues.

"Sanders replied that I wasn't prompt enough in complying with his request," he said, "particularly in regard to booklets he requested."

The booklets, Rumrich explained, were confidential military publications.

The first letter received from Sanders, he said, was postmarked Hamburg, Germany. The others were postmarked from the New York metropolitan area and were presumably mailed after being carried here by someone other than Sanders.

HIS CONTACTS

"I told him I was cultivating people who might be able to furnish valuable military information and that when things reached a certain point, I would let him know," said the witness.

There were no more letters by mail, Rumrich said. His next letter was delivered by hand by a "Mr. Schmidt."

"Schmidt called me at my office and said he had just returned from abroad and would like to call on me. Prior to that I had told Sanders where I was working."

He said next day Schmidt handed him a letter containing $50 in United States money in $5 bills.

Rumrich said Schmidt told him to sign the receipt which was in the letter, using the name of "Theodore Kerner." In the letter Sanders told him he had received advice from his central that "it would be allowed the sum of $50 monthly for my family support," Rumrich said.

Search Pressed In Icy Weather

HELENA, Mont. (AP)—Freezing weather settled down today on Montana, glazing highways in some snowswept areas and intensifying the search for two hunters and a 60-year-old woman lost in the season's first snowstorm.

The three-day snowfall abated early today as the mercury began to drop.

Grave fears were expressed for the safety of Mrs. Anna Reilly, 60-year-old employee of a Works Progress Administration sewing room project at Butte, feared lost in hills marked by many prospectors' pits. One hundred volunteer searchers were unable to find her.

Forest rangers and Civilian Conservation Corps enrollees searched for Guy Pizer of Pocatello, Idaho, and James Cummins, 22, of East Helena, missing on deer hunts.

CHICAGO (AP)—Middle westerners and easterners luxuriated in summer temperatures again today, while residents of the plains and mountains to the west shivered.

The United States weather bureau advised summer's passing was at hand in the north central states, however, and rains would fall in the southern sector and snow flurries would reach northern Michigan tomorrow.

Rain was forecast for tonight in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Missouri and eastern Iowa and more tomorrow in Indiana and Michigan.

Known to British Readers; New York Times Correspondent

BERLIN (AP)—Robert Crozier Long, 66, financial correspondent of the New York Times and Economist of London, died today of pneumonia.

Mr. Long was born in Ireland and began his journalistic career 44 years ago as London correspondent for United States newspapers. Later he carried out special assignments in Russia, including the famine of 1899 and the revolutionary outbreak of 1906. Subsequently he was Berlin correspondent of the Westminister Gazette.

He wrote widely, mainly on German, Russian and Scandinavian political topics.

Auto Plants Put Many to Work

General Motors Head Says at New York 35,000 Being Called Back

NEW YORK (AP)—General Motors Corporation announced today it would re-employ 35,000 additional workers within the next two weeks.

At the same time Alfred P. Sloan Jr., chairman, said salary cuts made last winter would be restored.

The increase in employment, it was said, was in connection with expansion and production of 1939 models.

"Our new models have been well received," Sloan said. "There appears to be a greater interest than existed a year ago."

Sloan added the reception given new cars had convinced General Motors officials "that the trend of consumer to buying when retail deliveries of new cars can be made to customers in volume will be found to be substantially improved over that existing during the past few months."

The salary adjustments, it was explained, will take the form of restoring compensation of those receiving $300 a month or less to the level existing February 28, 1938, when the reduction became effective.

Reich Colonies Plan Opposed

LONDON (CP)—An organized movement, supported by powerful interests in South Africa, has been launched in Britain to fight against return of colonies lost by Germany in the Great War.

Leaders of the movement have drawn attention to Chancellor Hitler's statement during his historic conference with Prime Minister Chamberlain at Godesberg: "There is still the question of colonies, but that can be settled without war."

South African spokesmen, however, insist there can be no negotiations with Germany on this issue without prior knowledge and consent of those most vitally concerned.

A lead in the anti-restoration campaign was given by the Tanganyika mandates committee in a cable sent through the Joint East African Board in London to the Secretary of State for the Colonies.

Meanwhile dispatches from South Africa stress growing anxiety lest Britain should commit herself to a colonial settlement with Germany.

Reports from Southwest Africa declare British subjects are demanding a plebiscite forthwith irrevocably to decide whether Southwest Africa should be annexed to the Union of South Africa as a fifth province, or returned to Germany.

PLEDGE RESISTANCE

DURBAN, Natal, South Africa (AP)—A mass meeting of 2,000 persons, headed by Mayor Fleming Johnston of Durban, today pledged strenuous resistance to any effort to return to Germany war-lost Tanganyika territory.

WIDELY DISCUSSED

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (CP-Reuters)—Question of Germany's former colonies had been brought to the forefront of political discussions in South Africa as a result of settlement of the Sudeten problem.

The present European population in Southwest Africa is 30,000, including 21,000 South Africans, 6,000 Germans who are naturalized (mainly automatically) British subjects, and 3,000 un-naturalized Germans.

Germany's occupation of Sudetenland has resulted in the un-naturalized Germans openly declaring Germany will regain Southwest Africa.

As far as the natives of Southwest Africa are concerned, it is believed the vast majority would view the return to the colonies to Germany with the gravest misgivings.

Hoover Speaks In Campaign

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Herbert Hoover is appealing for the "emancipation" of the United States Congress from the "personal domination" of President Roosevelt, whom he accuses of "steadily driving for more and more power over the daily lives of the people."

The former President, in an address last night, urged voters to elect "independent-minded men" to Congress to halt experiments "with the American way of life" by the New Deal and "its yes-yes men."

Compromise on U.S. Rail Wage Issue

WASHINGTON (AP)—Persons close to President Roosevelt's fact-finding board predicted today it would recommend a compromise adjustment of the proposed 15 per cent railroad wage cut. The board, appointed by the President in an effort to avert a threatened strike in the United States railroad industry, began work on a report which it must complete by October 27.

Czech Loan Less Than Total Asked

LONDON (AP)—The Czechoslovak financial mission left for Prague last night apparently after failing to obtain the full $30,000,000 ($150,000,000) loan requested by Great Britain and France for reconstruction of the dismembered republic.

The Bank of England, with a British Treasury guarantee, loaned $10,000,000 ($50,000,000) and the government promised to confer with France on the remaining amount asked by the Czechoslovaks.

Informed sources said France had told the financial mission French needs precluded assistance at present. British officials were reported unwilling to advance the amount alone.

Aberhart Plans to Share in Campaign

EDMONTON (CP)—Premier Aberhart said today he intended to take part in the provincial by-election campaign in Athabasca in support of Clarence H. Tade, Social Credit candidate.

Mr. Tade was chosen candidate by a selection committee of the provincial government and an advisory board of Athabasca riding Social Crediters yesterday at Colinton.

Mr. Tade will be opposed by C. J. Tayner Whiteley, Liberal. No other candidates are expected.

GROWING DEAF WITH HEAD NOISES? TRY THIS

If you are growing hard of hearing and fear Cerebral Deafness or if you have a roaring, rumbling, hissing noise in your ears go to your drug store and get 1 ounce of Parmitin (double strength), and add to it 4 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dripping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who is threatened with Cerebral Deafness or who has head noises should give this prescription a trial.

Union Cabinet Plan for Britain

Eden Suggests One
When Answering
Hitler's Speech

LONDON (AP)—Anthony Eden today replied to Chancellor Hitler's oratorical attacks with the declaration that "there are no war-mongers among us."

Speaking at the 122nd annual meeting of the International Peace Society, Mr. Eden, who resigned as Foreign Secretary February 20 in protest against Prime Minister Chamberlain's policy toward the dictators, at the same time presented the case for an all-party government to replace Mr. Chamberlain's ministry.

INFLUENCE NEEDED

He declared Great Britain must organize for defence or "our authority will continue to decline in a world which is rearming to the teeth and organized for war."

If this can be done more efficiently and speedily by "a government in which all parties are represented, then the case for such a government is surely unanswerable," he declared.

The former Foreign Secretary's reference to "war mongers" was in reply to Hitler's Saarland speech October 10 when he said "there are those abroad who do not want peace.... Supposing after Chamberlain there came Cooper or Eden or Churchill? They are the men who would like to make war."

These three—Mr. Eden, Alfred Duff Cooper and Winston Churchill—have been the leaders of opposition within the Conservative party to Mr. Chamberlain's foreign policy.

Bren Inquiry

OTTAWA (CP)—At today's session of the Bren machine gun inquiry, Lieut.-Col. George A. Drew, whose article in a magazine led to the investigation, questioned Maj.-Gen. L. R. LaFleche, Deputy Minister of Defence, on his knowledge of the terms of reference to the royal commission. Gen. LaFleche said he was familiar with the terms, particularly those relating to association of any member of parliament with the Bren contract.

"Have you any information in addition to that you have already given, in regard to activities of members of parliament in this connection at any stage?" Col. Drew asked.

Gen. LaFleche said he had no memory of any member of parliament other than the one he had mentioned in his evidence being connected with the contract. "He continued to take an interest in the outcome of these negotiations," Col. Drew said.

Col. Drew: "You mean Hugh Plaxton (Liberal member for Toronto-Trinity)?"

"Yes, sir."

After Mr. Plaxton and Major Hahn went to London, Gen. LaFleche had a cable from Plaxton from London, but did not see him until the parliamentary session of 1937. He would not say Plaxton was "pushing" him harder than anybody else in connection with the Bren gun.

IN HIS RIDING

Mr. Plaxton had a "natural interest" because the proposed plant was in his riding, Gen. LaFleche said.

"Did you ever know," Col. Drew asked, "of a member of parliament so intensely interested in his riding that he would make a trip to England to further that interest?"

"I don't recall any at the moment," Gen. LaFleche replied.

Col. Drew asked whether that meant Canadian methods were controlled from London.

The witness said this was not so.

Later Lieut.-Col. Drew asked: "Hasn't it occurred to you at any time to ascertain how and when this company was incorporated?"

Gen. LaFleche said he had that information, but did not carry it in his head.

Gen. LaFleche said he would look up what information he had of the company's incorporation.

"And I would be interested to know," Mr. Justice Davis interjected, "when Gen. LaFleche obtained that information."

"Did you ever see the Inglis plant?" asked Col. Drew.

"No, I never saw it," said the witness.

"Do you know who holds the Inglis stock?"

Gen. LaFleche said he knew only what had appeared in the public press.

Mr. Justice Davis said he would like to know whether, when the contract was signed March 30, 1937, the witness knew who the directors or shareholders were.

"I did not," Gen. LaFleche replied. He added that he knew Hahn held the majority of shares and he was going into the business not as a promoter, but determined to devote his career to the manufacturing business.

Japan's Canton Army Advances

Drives on From Point Half-way
From Hongkong

HONGKONG (AP)—A strong Japanese column drove south-eastward Tuesday across flat terrain toward the Bocca Tigris forts, capture of which would deal a sharp blow to the defence of Canton, whose water approaches they guard.

If the invaders can eliminate those fortifications—which the Chinese call "tiger's mouth"—and which are supplied with modern armaments—they will enable warships to fight a way to the south China metropolis.

A vicious land attack on the stronghold appeared imminent as the column pushed on after capturing Cheungmuktao, midway between Hongkong and Canton, about 80 miles apart, and on the vital Canton-Kowloon railway.

CANTON (AP)—Detachments of Chinese troops arrived in junks from neighboring Kwangsi province Tuesday to aid in the defence of Canton as invading Japanese forces drew relentlessly nearer.

Military observers were convinced the Chinese resistance was not strong, but admitted the possibility an effective defence still might be organized.

Canton was a scene of great confusion and activity. Towboats were crowded with women and children trying to get away. Department stores packed up their wares in attempts to save the merchandise. An estimated 2,000,000 refugees swarmed westward and northward before the invaders.

German Says Hitler Bluffed at Munich

LONDON (CP-Havas)—Captain von Tintelen, said to be a former agent of the German intelligence service, declared last night in a speech at Bromley that the Munich four-power settlement was a "gigantic fraud" because Germany would not have gone to war.

"The affair of two weeks ago was a bluff, and both England and France fell for it," said Capt. von Tintelen. "It never was a question of war or peace at all."

BERLIN (AP)—Poland and Germany today signed a credit arrangement under which Germany, in the next 30 months, would supply Poland with machinery, tools and factory equipment to the value of 120,000,000 zlotys (about $22,500,000) in return for Polish lumber, grain and other agricultural produce. It was explained the new agreement was in addition to the existing Polish-German economic treaty.

HOMEcoming AT U.B.C. FRIDAY

VANCOUVER (CP) — Milton Owen, president of the Alumni Association, and Evan ap Roberts, junior member of the Students' Council, have completed arrangements for the annual homecoming ceremonies for graduates of University of British Columbia. On Friday the alumni will attend a reunion dinner and in the evening will be greeted at a homecoming dance and football rally in the Hotel Vancouver. Following a "pep meeting," Saturday a parade of floats will tour downtown city streets and in the afternoon the graduates will witness a Canadian football game on the varsity campus, followed by a tea-dance in the gymnasium. In the evening the ex-students will attend a theatre performance in the university auditorium and then a basketball game between members of the varsity senior A team and a picked team of graduates to complete the program.

Among the accommodations of the liner Queen Mary are kennels of every size to accommodate every sort of dog.

GROUP HOSPITAL SCHEME AT GALT

Treatment Arranged in Ontario Town for Small Monthly Payments

GALT, Ont. (CP) — Group hospitalization on a co-operative basis will be provided at the city-owned General Hospital here through the Galt Hospital Service Society.

The society, incorporated under a provincial charter, plans to receive applications immediately. Contracts for hospital care will cost one person $9 annually, payable at 75 cents monthly. If a man and wife are included in the same contract, rate for the two will be $12.50 a year. For husband, wife and two children, it will be $15 and for five children $16.80 yearly.

A person with an individual contract will be eligible for usual hospital care for 21 days if necessary—a maximum value of $63. If longer care is required, the patient will be charged at the usual hospital rate, less 25 per cent for the time in hospital over 21 days.

Where wives are included in the contract they can be in hospital 21 days for an obstetrical case and the bill for usual hospital care will be met by the society.

Where wives are in hospital for other than obstetrical cases 50 per cent of the hospital bill will be paid for 21 days and for another 21-day period there will be a discount of 12½ per cent. Benefits for children are the same as for wives.

CRIME NEWS IN TACOMA CENSORED

Only the Commissioner Will Tell Papers About Major Offences

TACOMA (AP) — Crime news was barred today by Tacoma's recently-elected commissioner of police, Holmes Eastwood.

Threatening members of his department with dismissal for giving information to newspapers and radio stations, Eastwood clamped a rigid censorship on all police news.

A formal order posted in police headquarters specifically banned any news of murder, kidnapping "or other serious crimes," reserving the right to himself to reveal "what is correct for the newspapers and radio stations and what is not correct."

He said newspapers would be permitted to have information concerning "robberies, burglaries, larcenies or other minor crimes."

He instructed Police Chief James Dew and Inspector Sherman Lyons to collect all arrest and crime report cards at the end of each eight-hour shift, doling out such reports as they saw fit for newspapers.

Test Nov. 8 For Roosevelt

U.S. Election Will Show Whether Popularity Remains

By W. B. RYSDALE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON — Thirty-three governors, 467 members of the United States Congress and hundreds of lesser officials will be chosen November 8 in an election which may show how firmly President Roosevelt has retained his hold on the voters.

Wide Republican Party gains would bring instant claims the President's grip is slipping. A Democratic loss of only 25 or 30 House seats and a governor or so would leave the Democrats feeling they had ridden out the storm pretty well.

Most Democratic leaders expect some losses. It has been customary for a backswing to set in after a party has surged upward in the sweep of a Presidential election.

Yet the issues and the parties have become so enmeshed in pre-election manoeuvrings that unless there is a major upset it might be hard to prove very much from the election results.

In some states Republicans are seeking office on platform promises that bring shudders to conservative Democrats. And the Democratic ticket is laden with numerous conservatives whose very names cause liberal Democrats to get red in the face.

In few places have the questions been boiled down to the simple one of whether a candidate if or against the policies of the New Deal.

ROOSEVELT'S STATEMENTS
The President's own attitude has not helped to make it a straight party fight. He fought certain members of his own party in the primaries because they were too conservative to suit him. He said he would not object to the election of a good liberal who happened to be running on the Republican ticket.

Along came Postmaster-General Farley, speaking as the chairman of the Democratic National Committee, to say he would support all the candidates on the Democratic ticket, irrespective of whether they were conservative or liberal in their views. Mr. Roosevelt then said that if he were Farley, he would have said the same thing.

Two movements are being watched closely by officials of both major parties. One is the reaction of the farmers to operation of the new farm program. The other is the demands of high pension advocates.

Man and insects form the two most successful biological groups in existence. One consists of almost half a million kinds, the other consists of but one.

MAC-PAP LOSSES IN SPAIN ESTIMATED

Fewer Canadian Volunteers Killed Than Fighters From U.S.

TORONTO (CP) — Friends of the Mackenzie-Papineau Battalion, organization supporting that unit in the Spanish civil war, estimated today Canadian casualties in the conflict were much lighter than the American losses. The comment followed a Washington estimate that about half of the 4,000 who went from the United States and supported the government forces were killed or missing.

The "Mac-Paps" supporters here said about 1,200 to 1,250 Canadians crossed to fight in Spain. While they had no figures on the recent Ebro offensive, they said unofficial estimates of fighting elsewhere showed 125 to 150 killed, 38 taken prisoner by insurgent forces and 50 missing. Canadian casualties in the Ebro fighting were said to be light.

Officials said a large number of Canadians served in the artillery, where casualties were not so great as in the infantry. Another reason for lighter Canadian casualties was that the Canadians did not suffer as greatly as Americans in the March fighting.

STAGE CABINET IN U.S. CAPITAL

But None of Secretaries Sees Cohan's New Play

WASHINGTON (AP) — Official Washington, it appears, would rather stay right at home than see George M. Cohan in a play about it — "I'd Rather Be Right."

Necks craned around the National Theatre last night when the 10 actors impersonating the United States cabinet trooped on the stage, but the only figure faintly akin to the cabinet in the audience was Mrs. Harry Woodring, wife of the Secretary of War.

She smiled. Loud cheers went up, however, when the stage State Secretary Hull asked the stage Postmaster-General Farley not to send him too many party faithfuls.

"The last one," said Marion Green, playing the Hull role, "didn't know Brazil from Brasilia."

BREN FACTORY PLANS SPEEDED

Company in Toronto Rushing Machinery Building, Says Ottawa Paper

OTTAWA (CP) — The John Inglis Company of Toronto is rushing its plans and efforts in collecting the necessary machinery, dies and tools preparatory to getting into production to fill the Canadian order for 7,000 Bren machine guns and the British order for 5,000, according to the Ottawa Evening Citizen.

A preliminary two-year period, as from April 1 last, is allowed the Inglis company to get its plant into production. The newspaper yesterday said that under Major James E. Hahn, as president, the company was straining every effort to get into production earlier if possible.

The newspaper continued that Lieut.-Col. George Drew, K.C., of Toronto, whose article in MacLean's Magazine led to the inquiry, suggested all work by the Inglis Company be stopped until the inquiry was concluded. But J. C. McRuer, K.C., of Toronto, counsel for Hahn and the company, pointed out the company had its legal obligations to the British government in connection with its order, regardless of the ultimate outcome of the Canadian government order.

Ontario Doctors Drive Out Quacks

TORONTO (CP) — Severity of a campaign by the Ontario College of Physicians and Surgeons has driven many medical "quacks" and "irregulars" to Quebec province, according to college officers.

Inspector S. C. Barker said a few days ago the college investigated a small tradesman who was making $300 a day "treating" patients by astrology.

"The trouble with this type of quack," Barker said, "is that he pays his fines and continues practicing."

Fines in Ontario totaled only $820 last year against $4,861 in Quebec, and this year fines in the sister province have taken a sharp jump, principally, Barker said, because of the strictness of the Ontario campaign, which drove many of the quacks to Quebec.

Ulster Leaders Score Valera Plan

No Acceptance of Suggestion All-Ireland Parliament Be Set Up

BELFAST (CP) — Eamon de Valera's latest overture to end the partition between Eire and Northern Ireland met with a chill response from political leaders of the six northern counties today.

"The people of Northern Ireland will not entertain Mr. de Valera's scheme for one minute," said Sir Joseph Davidson, grand secretary of the Orange Order.

"No safeguards which he can offer will be acceptable to the loyalists of Northern Ireland. We may have our domestic differences, but on the question of our association with the United Kingdom we are as one. If our position were threatened we would stand together as a solid mass prepared to go to any lengths in defence of our liberties."

John F. Gordon, minister of labor and president of the Labor Unionist Association, expressed delight at the "firm attitude" taken by Viscount Craigavon, Premier of Northern Ireland, in regard to the new proposals of the Premier of Eire. Lord Craigavon reaffirmed the determination of the six counties to remain part of the United Kingdom.

In an interview with the London Evening Standard yesterday Mr. de Valera urged the United Kingdom to persuade Northern Ireland to join in an all-Ireland parliament, the north at the same time retaining autonomy in local affairs. He warned that while the partition remained the chances of Eire's co-operation with the United Kingdom in the event of war were "very slight."

IN DISTURBED TIMES

Mr. Gordon added that "in Lord Craigavon we have a wise and experienced leader who stands as firm as rock on the question of Northern Ireland's partnership with the United Kingdom. It is characteristic of the enemies of Northern Ireland that they are trying to take advantage of the recent international crisis for their own ends."

Thomas Henderson, Independent Unionist member of the Stormont Parliament, said it would be infinitely more preferable for Northern Ireland to abolish its own parliament and go back to Westminster than to accept Mr. de Valera's plan.

"There is no doubt we shall resist to the utmost of our power any attempt to coerce Northern Ireland," Mr. Henderson said. "As one who has fought tooth and nail against the government of Northern Ireland on many matters, I can say that independent unionists would have something to say and do if there were any question of merging with Eire."

LOWER BENEFITS

Capt. Herbert Dixon, chief government whip, declared Mr. de Valera was asking the people of Northern Ireland to give up the King for President Douglas Hyde and to surrender the Union Jack for the tricolor of Eire.

"He asks the working man of Northern Ireland to accept lower social benefits than he is now receiving and desires the Northern Ireland farmer to yield the rights for which he has fought so many years," Capt. Dixon said.

"I think it is regrettable that Mr. de Valera's undoubted brains and talents are being devoted to political ends rather than uplifting and improving the social conditions of his own people."

Toronto Receives Stork Derby Money

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Hollis Timleck, one of the $100,000 winners in the Charles Vance Millar "baby derby," squared her account with the city yesterday.

Mrs. Timleck presented Mayor Ralph Day with a cheque for an unstated amount to cover hospitalization and relief costs allowed her family during the years they sought aid from the city, before the "derby" brought fame and fortune.

The Timlecks are the second of the contest winners to repay the city. Last Saturday the John Nagles handed a cheque to city officials for hospitalization and relief before the "baby sweepstakes" swelled the family fortune.

Magic of Words Lecture Topic

Dr. G. G. Sedgewick Speaks to University Extension Members

The potency of words was the subject of a talk by Professor G. G. Sedgewick, of the University of British Columbia, in an address to members of the University Extension Association in the auditorium of the Central Junior High School last night, at the opening lecture of the season.

"In the Beginning Was the Word" was the subject of the lecture, which dealt with the different effects and implications of the word "word."

EFFECTS OF WORDS

Dr. Sedgewick then went on to explain the hypnotic use of words and quoted some common phrases, old and new, which have had a great effect on the masses in recent years. "World safe for democracy" and "war to end wars" were some of these more common expressions which not so long ago swept the world with their magic, he said.

"I hesitate in this seat of government to express the influence of words in one particular instance," the lecturer said. "Five years ago I voted because of the words 'work and wages,' but now I hesitate and wonder."

"Racial purity" is another example of an expression which is comparatively modern, but what hideous things are being done in its name," Dr. Sedgewick said. "These words are 'black magic'."

The healing quality of words was illustrated by quoting a letter from Abraham Lincoln to the mother of five sons who died in the American Civil War.

In conclusion Dr. Sedgewick said that words still had the power to sway human emotions and that it was hard to believe that the power of words had altered very much from the primitive.

The speaker was introduced by H. L. Smith, president of the association.

U.S. Trade in South China Menaced

Washington Watches Interests as Japanese Troops Advance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Japan's advance into south China is threatening extensive United States trade and investments.

Federal officials, watching the new turn the Japanese-Chinese war has taken, are prepared to assert American rights to equal opportunity for trade, residence and missionary activity.

United States exports sent to Hongkong, almost all for forwarding to south China, have more than tripled in the past year and a half.

American products have been flowing to Hongkong because the war in north and central China cut off trade in those regions. Now the war in south China may deflect them again, possibly through French Indo-China or India.

A challenge to Health-minded People

Give Dr. Jackson Meal this 30-day Breakfast Test.

Then try again the cereal you had been using and SEE HOW GLAD YOU ARE TO GET BACK TO DR. JACKSON MEAL

Discover My Secret of Health

DR. JACKSON MEAL is the cereal food I invented 30 years ago to do a definite job — to build up my own wasted body — and it did the trick! It is not a sweet, highly-processed product that people taste and say "That's nice". There are lots of nice-tasting foods — some harmless, some with no food value to speak of, and, of course, no health value.

Dr. Jackson Meal needs chewing — that gets saliva flowing. It contains rye and wheat and bran — and, what no other cereal contains, Flax-o-Lin and rice polishings. It is rich in nature's nerve-building mineral salts and vitality-building germs. It provides the bulk which exercises the intestines, keeping them strong and preventing constipation.

Knowing this, and knowing what it has done for me and thousands of others, I said to myself "Why doesn't everyone use it?" The answer undoubtedly is, that many people carelessly choose "nice" foods instead of right foods.

So here is my challenge to those who seek after health. For 30 breakfasts eat Dr. Jackson Meal (or my other similar cereals, Lishu or Bekus Puddy) together with some fruit. Drink only Kofy-Sub — the greatest alkali-forming and iron-rich beverage known to me. Do this each morning for 30 breakfasts. Note how your digestion has improved — your intestinal elimination increased — how alert you feel mentally and physically. THEN switch back to your previous cereal, for a few weeks, and again check yourself up. If you don't feel that in passing up Dr. Jackson foods you are depriving your body of the vital nourishment it craves, I have nothing more to say — you have accepted my challenge — that's all I asked of you.

Robt. Jackson M.D.

Who is Dr. Jackson?

At 50 years of age Dr. Jackson was a complete physical wreck, given but a few months to live, by the great Sir Wm. Osler. He was rapidly going blind and crippled. It was then Dr. Jackson invented Roman Meal (now Dr. Jackson Meal) to see if a complete change of eating and living habits would rejuvenate his body. He lived entirely upon Roman Meal for months taking systematic exercise in the fresh air. Today in his 81st year, Dr. Jackson has the strength, stamina and resistance of a trained young athlete and challenges physical degeneration, old age and sickness to attack him.

Read his challenge to you in this advertisement.

Test of Friendship

CZECHOSLOVAKIA HAS BEEN TRYING to raise a loan of $150,000,000 in Britain and France for reconstruction of the dismembered Republic. The Bank of England—with a British Treasury guarantee—loaned $50,000,000, and the government promised to see how far France would go toward the balance, as British officials were unwilling to advance the amount alone. Latest reports have it that French needs of the moment preclude any assistance.

There is nothing very much that can be said about this apparent failure of the Czechoslovak financial mission to borrow sufficient funds to assist the carved-up country, to get on its feet within its new borders, save the lack of practical interest in the Republic's fate seems to be in keeping with the march of events in recent weeks. Both British and French governments expressed their unbounded admiration for the restraint maintained by the authorities at Prague through all the trying period in which their country's achievements and hopes were being cashed in payment of Nazi Germany's demands.

From the cold material standpoint, of course, a loan to Czechoslovakia at this juncture does not offer the prospective investor a great deal of inducement. He naturally wonders how much more of the territory which Reichsfuehrer Hitler has been graciously pleased to allow the Republic to retain will be under the domination of the Nazi oligarchy this time next year.

To the impartial observer who may have been impressed by the prayers of thankfulness for the "Peace of Munich" which have gone up from the Prime Ministers of Great Britain and France it probably will appear that a loan of $150,000,000 to the suffering nation—the object of their pious solicitation who still lies writhing on the altar of despotic power and greed—was a small enough price to pay for even the temporary avoidance of war.

Mr. Hepburn and Mr. King

PREMIER HEPBURN AT SARNIA HAS been emphasizing his break with Prime Minister Mackenzie King. He said that he had been "foolish" in supporting Mr. King in the 1935 election and termed his action then as "a mistake I never will be able to live down."

The Toronto Star has been digging up some of the things Mr. Hepburn was telling the voters until he and Mr. King came to the parting of their ways. For instance, in 1935, when he toured Canada for Mr. King, Mr. Hepburn said at meeting after meeting: "Canada needs Mackenzie King at this time. She needs a man of his statesmanship, his foresight, his ability, his position in international affairs during these troublous times." Also, "Canada needs King. I say that because I sat under him for eight years. I know the calibre of man he is."

"That was Mr. Hepburn in 1935, fresh from eight years' close study of Mr. King at Ottawa," the Star comments. "And holding such an opinion, why was it a mistake for him to support such a leader? It surely cannot be said that he lacked candor: that he heaped all this extravagant praise upon a man whom he knew to be unworthy. Yet there seems to have been a lack of candor at some stage or other, for after testifying to Canada's need of Mr. King in 1935, Mr. Hepburn said in 1937, 'Mr. King has been bitterly hostile to this province for a long time. I know because I was in the federal House.'"

The fact seems to be that Mr. Hepburn did not find out what a bad man Mr. King has always been until Mr. King refused to let him have his own way. Before that time he was convinced by eight years spent at Ottawa that Mr. King was undoubtedly the man for Canada, including Ontario. After that, he discovered that his eight years in the Commons had taught him that Mr. King hates Ontario. The average man has a hard time figuring that out.

Salzburg Now

WITHOUT ANY VISIBLE OBJECTION so far from Reichsfuehrer Hitler, anti-clerical demonstrators are imposing their terroristic practices on Roman Catholic Archbishop Dr. Sigmund Waitz of fashionable and artistic Salzburg. Mob violence is reflected in smashed windows, derisive whistling and other forms of insult which may at any time result in bloodshed.

Not so very long ago, during the great Nazi Congress of Nuremberg, one or two relatively unimportant "tiffs" between Sudeten Germans and Czechoslovakians in the neighborhood of Eger were pointed to as proof that the Prague government was unable to preserve law and order in the Republic. To the Nazi mind, of course, this was just another type of vicious argument in support of the demand that Hitler's legions march into Sudetenland to restore calm. But it helped the general "pressure" which finally produced the four-power conference in ancient Munich.

An order from Berlin to put an end to terrorism in Vienna and Salzburg may be forthcoming after the "offending" clerics have been "subdued" by the fine technique as practiced by the archpriests of totalitarianism—or it may not.

Family Molds State

WE ARE IN A PERIOD IN WHICH THE state is being glorified. As the source of all power and all glory, national governments are setting forth their claims—and in many cases enforcing them—as the greatest moving force in the lives of millions of people. Yet there are other forces, and it remained for Dr. Stanley P. Davies, president of the Family Welfare Association, to remind us of one that is even more fundamental than the state. "From time to time throughout the course of history," says Dr. Davies, "the state has attempted to mold the family to its own ends, but in the last analysis the family has prevailed. The family molds the people, and in the long run the people mold the state."

That is getting back to fundamentals, for no one has yet devised a state or a manner of life which did not depend in large measure on a stable and vital family life. The experience of Russia soon after the revolution of 1917 taught them this. It was felt that the family had been outmoded. Easy and automatic marriage and divorce, state care of children and the like were the enthusiasms of that era. But gradually conditions changed, and family life in Russia is now not much different from family life anywhere. The basic institution of the family proved itself stronger than the state itself.

So, too, with the Jewish people, whose devotion to the family group is proverbial. Without any state at all, the life in family and synagogue and temple has proved a more constant unifying force than a score of states which have tried to supplant them.

There is a definite link, Dr. Davies believes, between family life and democracy, for the aim of each is the same: The liberation and fullest development of the individual. The social personality is best built within the family itself, that "little democracy" where mutual identification, sharing, recognition both of self-interest and group-interest grow strong. Principles learned here overflow later into the larger democracy of state and society, Dr. Davies believes. Each is necessary to, and each stimulates, the other. Family life develops best under democratic conditions, and democracy flowers fullest when family life is a rock anchoring people against winds of discontent and slippery slogans.

Beer Mit Guns

IT WAS MADE PUBLIC THE OTHER DAY that the Antarctica Brewery of San Paulo, Brazil, the biggest establishment of its kind in South America, was being guarded by federal troops. But this precaution had not been taken because the authorities feared a raid on the brewery during the thirsty season now approaching in Brazil. It appears that a large consignment of hops for the brewery recently arrived from Germany. During the unloading one of the cases fell over and burst its sides. It was then found to contain not hops, but a machine gun. A careful search revealed that other cases of hops contained deadly weapons, and so a guard was placed on the premises.

The establishment in question, although registered as a Brazilian company, is in fact a German concern, and, of course, Nazis have been active in Brazil for some time. (Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, in his address to the people of the United States on Sunday, said their technique had been "diving under the Monroe doctrine.") It is not known, however, how long and to what extent machine guns have been imported for the brewery. One can only hope this strange form of hops did not affect the beer. It was Gilbert Chesterton, incidentally, who once said he did not care a jot where the water went as long as it did not go into the wine. But machine guns in the beer would be much worse.

WHAT TAXES MEAN

Every company in Canada should take a leaf from the Dominion Engineering Co. book. Month after month in its house organ Dominion Engineer, it has been carrying on an aggressive, well-planned campaign against increasing public expenditure and taxation.

Its current issue it shows in detail the amounts paid by the company for various tax items. In total these amount to $575,000. This is just 37 per cent of its total payments for salaries and wages. It is four times the net earnings of the company for 1937. Sales tax alone was 2.32 times earnings and 21.3 per cent of wage and salary payments. The company emphasizes the detrimental effect on industrial development of high taxes—especially a high sales tax which weighs unduly heavily on the price of manufactured goods and, in the case of machinery and equipment for productive industries upon the investment of money for the expansion and improvement of these industries.

The result is to "discourage industrial development and with it the expansion of employment opportunities for our people." In the case of Dominion Engineering, sales taxes levied last year on the company's operations were equivalent to an increase in its wage costs of more than 21.3 per cent, and, including all taxation of more than 37 per cent. The company statement says: "These figures also suggest the extent to which high taxation exerts a downward pressure upon wages and at the same time increases the cost of everything the wage-earner buys."

"They suggest the urgent need for a more balanced distribution of taxation over a broader base, and the necessity for economy in government spending and the avoidance of further obligations which will result in further increases in taxation."

DOWNTRODDEN FOLK

MR. BRUCE BARTON, the noted American advertising man, who recently went to Congress, has applied his art to advertising the downtrodden politicians of Washington. He says that on the whole the American people get a much better government than they deserve, and he is surprised to find how good and painstaking it is.

This is just as true of Ottawa and Victoria. We get a much better government than we deserve; not as good as we need, of course, but better than we deserve by our own work, our own integrity and our own interest.

If you want to judge our interest in government observe a peculiarly Victorian phenomenon here next week, the opening of the Legislature; our one day a year for bursting out in top hats, tail coats and gold braid. Observe how the public loves it, cranes its neck to see the lush wonder of a Windsor uniform, listens to the band play and the guns salute. Note how eagerly invitations are sought, how every inch of space is crammed in that marble sepulchre, the Legislative Chamber.

The public loves to see the Legislature at play, but observe how empty will be the galleries on the day following, when the Legislature gets to work. Alas, from then on there will be nobody watching except some cabinet ministers' wives, come to take their men home to dinner, and a few old fellows who have no other place to keep warm. None of the rich of the previous day are there, none of the distinguished. They have gone home to curse the politicians.

Indeed, if you get right down to it, we don't deserve any government at all by our interest in it. That, of course, is why democracy is dying so fast everywhere and why it is easy for the other brands to get on the market.

What we don't seem to realize is that no problem will ever be solved by any government. Governments never solve anything. The solution, for which they get the credit, has been made by the people themselves, silently, inarticulate, by a slow, invisible fermentation process long before. If the people don't solve a problem, it is not solved. At present our people's minds are otherwise engaged, and they wonder why their governments can't do better. Look at our Legislature on its opening day and the day following and you'll see why they can't do better.

NO JUSTICE

NOW THAT THEY ARE demanding a plebiscite in Ireland to preserve the rights of minorities, this program of self-determination has become practically universal, and it's time some of our minorities here were given a little protection.

Why, right here in this free country there are minorities crushed under the iron heel of brute majorities, and nothing is being done to give them the least self-determination or any plebiscite. Do you think we country folk out here in the wilds like to be governed by the wicked city yonder? We want a plebiscite and self-determination. There are powerful minorities who object to your city traffic lights, a rank piece of tyranny. But no plebiscite. Why, there are thousands of men whose souls are harrowed by the sight of the headgear their women are wearing this fall, but what rights have they? No redress for them, no plebiscite. There are many of us who, at this season, watch the stupid majority burning their oak leaves instead of keeping them for compost, but what can we do? There is no self-determination for oak leaves.

In fact, despite all this clamour about our splendid freedom, you will find that there is none in the world; not in any essential things. We attack the dictatorships for crushing out independence, but what independence has any man in the democracies, in the important aspects of life? Only in his politics; only his freedom to vote as he pleases, and often he doesn't bother to go to the polls.

What he wants is liberty not to vote but to go fishing, to wear old clothes, to stop shaving for several days, to stay home from the office and plant tulip bulbs, to insult the boss and tell his wife where she gets off at. To every man these things are far more important than that dull thing, the franchise, but in these matters there is no relief, no justice, no plebiscite. Everywhere in the free countries we minorities are denied self-determination. We only determine the color of our governments. We never determine anything of importance to ourselves—like fishing, or the style of our women's hats."

MORE WISHLIF THINKING

From Windsor Star

The recent war scare in Great Britain has revived discussion on transferring the centre of the British Empire from England to Canada.

The idea of moving the capital of the Empire from London to some city in Ontario may sound fantastic when first mentioned. But the thought is not just the product of wishful thinking. There is good reason to believe that another war in Europe would see the hub of the British Empire moved westward away from the constant fighting of Europe in the hope of a permanency of peace in North America.

It is an historic fact that Canada served as the capital of Empire for certain purposes during the Great War. Ottawa stored gold for Great Britain because it was too dangerous to try and ship the gold through the submarine zone to the United States.

WHY WAR COMES

SOME READERS are annoyed with me because I say that another war is inevitable. They think that Hitler might still have a change of heart, that Mussolini may mend his ways or that something somehow will somewhere turn up to bring peace in the Orient. They miss the point entirely. If war does not come this year in Europe, it will come next year or the year after. It can be predicted with absolute Positive finality, with as much assurance as insurance rates are calculated.

We don't know who will die, but we know how many, says the insurance company advertisement with blunt frankness. So with wars. Just so long as the present system of independent nationalism lasts, just so long as recurrent wars are an utter certainty. For centuries nations have gone to war to settle disputes with other nations. As long as there are armies to order into battle, and governments free to order these armies, there will be wars from time to time. The only alternative is some form of government with power over all nations; not just over one or any one group.

Those who hope that Hitler might get a change of heart and so change Germany from marching toward war, are hopelessly befuddled. The Japanese general who led the attack on Nanking was personally one of the finest characters in Nippon. Kaiser Wilhelm was one of the most pious rulers ever to sit on any throne. Hindenburg knelt down every night and humbly asked for God's help all through the Great War. On the other side of the line Field-Marshal Sir Douglas Haig was doing the very same thing at the very same time. In Haig's memoirs he tells how he felt sure that God was with him. Hindenburg also felt like this, and so did Hitler, according to his own story, when he decided to invade Austria.

The war question is almost exactly parallel with the condition created by trying to accommodate motor car traffic on streets and highways designed to carry horse and buggy traffic. When we drive downtown anywhere on this continent, we will find droves of cars trying to crowd into space hopelessly inadequate. The insurance actaries can tell us with minute precision how many motor accidents there will be on highways of such and such a nature, carrying such and such an amount of traffic. In a certain percentage of accidents human frailty plays a part. But the basic cause is mechanical. We are trying to run these high-speed deadly machines on roadways which make accidents inevitable.

So it is with war. There can never be any real hope for peace until nations either surrender or have taken from them the right to make war and the means to make war.

Only when the battle flags of all nations are furled in the parliament of man will men be able to begin beating their swords into ploughshares and their spears into pruning hooks. Meanwhile all that is possible is to line up all possible strength against aggressors.

A RED CROSS OPINION

To the Editor:—It is quite apparent to all who have taken an active part in the support and maintenance of any of the several charitable and philanthropic societies operating in Greater Victoria, that the Community Chest of Greater Victoria won its spurs during the past year, and that the coming drive merits the wholehearted support of everyone.

Questions have been asked of us, as representatives of the Canadian Red Cross Society, regarding the Chest and its beneficiaries. For the benefit of those prospective contributors who have some doubts regarding these things, we think that the following facts are worthy of emphasis:

1. None of the social agencies and organizations represented by the Community Chest will hold a tag day or otherwise canvass the public for funds in any way. 2. The budgets of all associations are audited, checked and double checked. 3. Newspaper space is generously donated and all expenses connected with rallies of workers are met by the workers themselves. 4. The overhead operating cost of the Victoria Community Chest (less than 5 per cent in 1938) is lower than that of any similar organization on the whole continent.

Contributors to the Chest who wish membership in the Red Cross Society have only to mention this when making their donation and their names will be sent to us. We ask your generous support for this common-sense plan. J. G. Austin, president; R. S. Worsley, hon. secretary-treasurer, Victoria Branch, Canadian Red Cross Society.

"WITH BLEEDING HEARTS"

To the Editor:—"With bleeding hearts," said one of the British Undersecretaries of State in the entourage of Prime Minister Chamberlain, "have the British and French Governments decided to make this sacrifice in the interests of world peace."

Their "hearts bled" while they sacrificed the liberty and integrity of sovereign state. They gave nothing of their own, nothing that they were entitled to bargain away. Their whole contribution was a few hypocritical tears.

Utility Control Bill for House

Redistribution of Seats Also To Be Considered By B.C. Legislature

Public utility control and redistribution of provincial electoral boundaries give promise of being the main topics at the second session of British Columbia's 19th Legislature, opening next Tuesday.

From a public standpoint the government's utility bill, being drafted ready for the Liberal caucus, holds the greatest interest. Details of this measure remain a government secret, but its chief purpose is understood to be a form of control over electric light and power.

Government supervision for electric service and rates will follow the present attempt at utility control through the Coal and Petroleum Board. Transportation and other services probably will be included in the utilities bill as well.

The redistribution bill will be of greater interest to those who are politically active than the general public, it is expected, because it will involve no major change of policy. The size of the Legislature is not to be altered but there may be some alteration in ridings, particularly on Vancouver Island.

There is a possibility the Liquor Act may be opened for the first time in several years. An amendment to the regulations governing the handling of liquor in private clubs is suggested so that the present locker system may be eliminated. If the Liquor Act is opened, a strong drive is forecast by members who would permit the sale of beer and wines in hotel dining-rooms and first-class restaurants. This subject has been raised at several sessions, but no agreement could be reached in the caucus.

Important changes in the Mineral Act, designed to promote the development of claims and the general extension of the industry, are now in shape for presentation to the House.

Other government legislation includes a new pension plan for municipal employees and a change in the Motor Vehicle Act which will permit the seizure of a car for damages in an automobile accident. A minor alteration in titles of the new Department of Trade and Industry is also expected.

Present indications are there will be little in the way of social legislation. The government is not prepared with any amendments to the Health Insurance Act, as has been suggested, nor are any alterations in the new Industrial Disputes Conciliation and Arbitration Act planned, despite C.C.F. demands.

The marketing laws, upheld by the Puget Council, will also stand unchanged.

In view of the construction by the city at considerable expense of the George Road Ravine bridge last year, the city engineer has advised the council to ask the Canadian Northern Pacific Railway to contribute $5,000.

The city will borrow the sum of $60,000 from the Bank of British North America in order to complete the improvement scheme on north Douglas Street, pending the sale of the local improvement debentures for the work, and the amount will be paid out of the proceeds of this sale. The necessary arrangements between the city and the bank was approved last evening by the city council.

Thinks Body Was Moved

Dr. J. H. Moore Gives Assize Jury His Opinions Arising From Autopsy

From an autopsy he made the day after the tragedy Dr. J. H. Moore was of the opinion that Sidney William Colebourne lived half an hour after he was shot on the morning of April 1, and someone probably composed his body after the agony of death, the doctor yesterday told an assize court jury hearing the charge of murder against Mrs. Vera Colebourne.

Dr. Moore said he performed the autopsy on Colebourne on April 2 and found a penetrating wound of the left forehead, one and one-half inches above the eyebrow. It was surrounded by 90 powder marks and an area three inches in diameter about the wound was burned by the marks.

The margin of the wound was burned black, indicating the gun had been held close. The bullet track passed through the brain into the cerebellum and at the end of the track lay the distorted bullet, which struck the bone of the skull and fractured it at the back.

Witness identified the bullet, fragments of it, the section of the forehead including the bullet hole and powder marks and other fragments. Death had been caused by asphyxia resulting from injury by the bullet to that part of the brain governing respiration. There were no other marks of violence.

Death was not instantaneous, but within half an hour or an hour of the firing of the shot, he believed.

ARMS FOLDED

The doctor stated he thought the arms of the deceased had been folded after death.

"I think, after being shot in the head, one doesn't calmly fold the arms and quietly die," he stated.

In reply to a question by R. C. Lowe, defence counsel, as to whether or not he thought the body had moved after the shot, he replied "Yes."

There would be movement in the agony of death, the doctor remarked.

Powder marks were burned into the skin, he said. Witness said he was not an expert on guns, but thought the head of the accused would not have shown powder burns if the gun had been fired at a distance of five feet.

Following the luncheon recess yesterday, Dr. E. L. McNiven again took the stand to differentiate between powder marks and powder burns around the bullet hole in the forehead of the deceased. He told the court death was undoubtedly due to a shot fired into his head.

NEIGHBORS' EVIDENCE

Mrs. Annie Patrick, neighbor of Mrs. Colebourne, stated she was awakened at 4 in the morning on April 1 by her son hammering on the wall of her bedroom. The son told her someone was at the door. Witness went to the door and admitted Mrs. Colebourne, who was clad in a dressing gown, a pink slip, heavy socks and moccasins and was carrying her quilt-swathed child in her arms.

"Someone has broken into the house and I can't waken Sid," Mrs. Patrick quoted Mrs. Colebourne as saying. "I heard a bang and I can't get my lights on," she further quoted.

"SOUNDED LIKE SHOT"

Mrs. Patrick stated she told her son to telephone the police and as he was dialing, Mrs. Colebourne said, "It sounded like a shot."

Sergeant Reston arrived and Mrs. Colebourne told him someone had broken into her home.

The sergeant and Mrs. Patrick's husband and son went to the Colebourne bungalow and the husband and son later returned and telephoned for Chief John Syme.

When Sergeant Reston returned to the Patrick home he asked what had happened, witness said.

Mrs. Patrick said Mrs. Colebourne's reply to the effect that she and her daughter had gone to bed and left Colebourne counting his money, sitting on the couch. Mrs. Colebourne had wakened about midnight and seen her husband asleep on the couch adjoining her bed. After that she had wakened again, witness quoted her as saying, and had seen a man's arm in the sleeve of a mackinaw coat across her body. The hand had held a flashlight.

Witness stated she could not remember what Chief Syme had asked the accused.

The Colebourns had a dog that was allowed loose at night. It usually barked and made a fuss when anyone was about, Mrs. Patrick said.

PAINT CAN BEFORE DOOR

Robert William Patrick Jr. told of visiting the Colebourne bungalow with his father and Sergeant Reston, who led the way. He stated the three found a can of paint spilled on the sidewalk leading to the house and a second unopened can in front of the screen door. The can had to be moved before the door could be opened, witness said. He identified the screen door and paint cans and stated he stood in the doorway while his father and Reston entered the house with flashlights.

From his position in the doorway he saw the sergeant locate an open window in the living room adjoining the small bedroom in which the tragedy occurred. It was open about one and one-half to two feet. He heard the sergeant try the light switches but was confused in evidence regarding the actions of the sergeant in throwing in the main switch just above the front door.

His father, Robert Patrick, gave similar testimony and reported seeing the body of Colebourne in the bedroom on a couch. When the sergeant inspected the open window he found a piece of curtain rod on the outside sill, Mr. Patrick said. He did not see the sergeant put in the switch but was standing beside him when he did, the witness stated.

In reply to a question by Mr. Lowe the witness stated he had been asked on Saturday to testify and had seen M. B. Jackson, K.C., Crown prosecutor, on Sunday.

Further measurements of the house and furniture were given by H. T. Twigg, surveyor, recalled to the stand.

At adjournment the jury was taken to a downtown hotel under guard and remained there until the case reopened this morning.

Saanich Liberals Elect Wilkinson

Hon. F. M. MacPherson And R. W. Mayhew Speak To Saanich Organization

Eric Wilkinson was elected president of the Saanich Liberal Association, succeeding E. E. Bell, at a largely-attended meeting last night in Hampton Hall. Mr. Bell has been president for the last four years.

Hon. F. M. MacPherson, Minister of Public Works, R. W. Mayhew, M.P. for Victoria, and Hon. Norman Whittaker, Speaker of the House and member for Saanich, were present and spoke briefly.

The meeting named Premier W. L. Mackenzie King and Premier Pattullo as honorary presidents, and Mr. Whittaker and Alan Chambers as honorary vice-presidents. Thomas Jarvis and Thomas Alexander will be the vice-presidents and L. Fletcher secretary-treasurer.

There was considerable activity during the last year, the retiring president noted in his report. He spoke of increased attendances at the annual meetings of the various wards. The secretary's report showed an increase in membership of 79.

CONFIDENCE IN GOVERNMENTS

The meeting reaffirmed its confidence in the Liberal Government at Ottawa and went on record as pledging itself to do everything in its power to further the Liberal cause. A. K. Dodson and Thomas Alexander were mover and seconder of this motion.

E. Wilkinson moved and Robert Grey seconded a resolution of confidence in the provincial government.

The Ward Four Saanich Liberal Association suggested to the meeting that seven persons, instead of five, from each ward should sit on the central executive. This and other minor notices of change in the constitution will be discussed in detail at a future meeting.

DIFFICULT ADMINISTRATION

Mr. MacPherson vigorously defended his road program. He said this province, with a population of only 800,000 persons, maintained more than 20,000 miles of roads and had only $2,100,000 for such maintenance. He said his department was doing everything in its power to improve and maintain the roads and highways of the province with the money available for such purposes.

He compared this amount of money, and the comparatively small population, with the vast population and resources of the United States, whose highways, many said, should be copied in British Columbia.

He noted an increase in three years of 700 miles, he said. Highways were being widened wherever possible, and railway crossings were being done away with. The mining roads were opening new properties and creating employment.

Mr. MacPherson briefly sketched the difficulties and expense of maintaining the bridges, of which there were 4,000 in this province. He told also of flood damage repairs and removal of snow, which kept his department busy during the winter months. He declared people could see their money was being better

Co-eds' Dating Bureau Upsets Studies

SEATTLE (AP)—The University of Washington Daily has aimed a blow at the university's traditional dating bureau—the library.

In an editorial headed "Exit the Reading Room Romance," the Daily suggests young love find another rendezvous, permitting the overworked library to be used for the purpose for which it was intended.

The Daily says in part: "Love will find a way they say. Let love find its way out of the library, then, to some locality where environment is not necessary to the scholastic life. In the struggle between book education and other forms, something must give. In a university where professors continue to give tests every Friday, there is only one solution."

"The library dating bureau must go."

"Loss Leaders" Bill To Be Studied By Women

Propaganda Brought To Local Council's Notice

The need for discrimination in marketing was again emphasized at the Local Council of Women yesterday afternoon, when attention was drawn to the propaganda which is being issued from Vancouver in connection with the "Commodities Retail Market Act." The principle of the bill, which aims at "loss leader" sales, was endorsed by the Provincial Council of Women at the time of its inception, and members of the council yesterday were urged to study the bill and inform themselves fully of its provisions.

STUDY GROUPS

Dr. Jardine suggested the formation of study groups under the standing committees, so that members may inform themselves more closely on subjects of current interest. A letter from Mrs. F. J. Ralston, provincial president, suggested the following subjects for study: Migration, unemployment (especially of single unemployed), public health and cancer control, unemployment insurance, Oriental problem in B.C., the Alaska and other highways, forest conservation, housing and the health insurance act.

The national convenor of natural resources and industries wrote suggesting study on new industries, especially the findings of Canadian industrial chemists; a greater use of silver dollars to encourage nickel mining in Canada, and to work towards the establishment of mining schools.

CANCER CONTROL

Dr. Ethlyn Trapp of New Westminster will address a public meeting under the auspices of the Local Council of Women in the next few weeks, the date to be announced later. She will speak on the subject of cancer and its prevention and control in British Columbia.

The council extended its congratulations to Mrs. J. L. White on her election to the office of presidency of the district board on the South Vancouver Island Women's Institutes.

YOUTH HOSTELS

Reference was made to the two youth hostels established on Vancouver Island this year, and it was stated they had proved such a success that two more are contemplated near Victoria next year.

Mrs. J. L. White reported as convenor of taxation and economics, stating they had started study groups and had several meetings.

All members of the council were invited to attend the opening of the new home economics laboratory at the Victoria High School on Friday, October 28, at 4 p.m.

Mrs. Reese Burns, convenor of the committee on drama and arts, sent in an interesting report, showing a revival of interest throughout the Dominion, and in Victoria in the legitimate stage.

Miss Ripley of Vancouver, who is in charge of work among sub-normal children, was welcomed as a visitor.

Mrs. H. M. Hall gave a report on the matter of tourist accommodation in private houses and its suggested regulation and control, and after some discussion of the alleged exploitation of tourists in certain cases, the matter was referred to the housing and town planning committee for further investigation, with a view to seeing what steps might be taken in this matter.

Representatives of affiliated organizations were reminded that any resolutions to be put through the annual meeting should be in the hands of the Local Council by the beginning of November.

MUSICAL ART CONCERT

At the meeting of the executive of the Victoria Musical Art Society held last night in Miss Lora Blake's suite, Empress Hotel, Mrs. V. L. Denton and Miss Beatrice Griffin were elected to the executive in place of Miss Helen Ockenden and Miss Norah Jones, whose resignations were received with regret. Miss Selma Reyes' recital, which was scheduled for November 9, has been advanced to November 2, to avoid conflict with the Kreiser concert in Vancouver on the later date. January 11 was chosen as the date of the annual tea musicale.

In China, chrysalids of silk-worm moths are eaten, after the silk has been wound from the surrounding cocoons.

BLACKHEADS

Blackheads go quickly by a simple method that just dissolves them. Get two ounces of peroxide powder from your druggist, rub this with a hot, wet cloth gently over the blackheads—and you will wonder where they have gone. Have a Hollywood complexion.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jeffrey, Oak Bay, have staying with them Miss Babe Clark of Vancouver.

Mrs. Reginald Freeman of Victoria is the guest for a week or two of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Price, "Mersey," Ganges.

Mrs. Robert H. Arkell will arrive from Vancouver tomorrow to visit her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Geoffrey Tullidge, Moss Street.

Mrs. W. P. Bowden, Sinclair Road, who has been visiting in Tacoma with Major and Mrs. J. E. Mathews, returned home this afternoon.

Mrs. E. Hammond King, Fort Street, is spending several weeks at Vesuvius Bay, Salt Spring Island, the guest of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Wilson.

Miss Enid McAdam of London, England, has returned to the city from Vancouver and is staying with her aunt, Miss McAdam, Fort Street, and with Mrs. H. V. Mills, Moss Street.

Mrs. E. Plewes of Langley Prairie, who has been visiting her relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. McGregor and Mrs. Graham, Cloverdale Avenue, for the past few days, has returned to her home on the mainland.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Broocke, Shawinigan Lake, announce the engagement of their only daughter, Loraine, to Lawrence Wilson, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Olmstead, Redonda Island. The wedding will take place quietly early in November.

Mrs. Ida Jackson of North Battleford, Sask., has arrived in Victoria to spend about a month to be near her son, who is a patient in the Royal Jubilee Hospital. Mrs. Jackson is visiting friends during her stay, and at present is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Colbeck, 351 Foul Bay Road.

Miss Eleanor Hutchison of Los Angeles, who has been spending the last two months with her father, Mr. R. Hutchison, Ellice Street, will leave tomorrow for California. Yesterday afternoon Miss Hutchison entertained a few friends at the tea hour at the Oak Bay Beach Hotel, including Mrs. Frank Jeffrey, Miss Babe Clark of Vancouver, Mrs. John Dawson and Mrs. Hugh Beck.

Word was received in Victoria yesterday from Mrs. H. A. Hincks of Langford that her daughter, Miss Eileen Hincks, who is seriously ill in the hospital at Burns Lake, is progressing as satisfactorily as possible. Mrs. Hincks, accompanied by her son, Mr. Kenneth Hincks of Langford and her daughter, Miss Stella Hincks of the nursing staff of the Mental Hospital at Essonville, left Vancouver on Saturday morning by motor for Burns Lake, and reached the interior town on Sunday evening.

Kiwanis Club members, their wives and friends, last night attended the club's annual "ladies' night" at the Beach Hotel, Oak Bay. Dancing and bridge were enjoyed, followed by a supper served at 11.15. Among the visitors were Mr. Harold Jones, Portland, district secretary of Kiwanis, and Mrs. Jones, and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hazen, also of Portland. Mr. Hazen is a former past president of the Portland club. The evening was arranged by a committee under Mr. J. G. MacFarlane, president.

Mr. Edward A. Norcross and his bride, formerly Miss Dorothy Carroll of Nanaimo, who went south to spend their honeymoon, will arrive in Victoria at the end of the week on a brief visit to Mr. Norcross' mother, Mrs. W. N. Tompkins, Yates Street.

Miss Marjorie Gooderham left a few days ago for Winnipeg, where she is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Don Kennedy, Charleswood. Miss Gooderham shared honors with Mrs. John Dean Gooderham, a recent bride, when Mrs. L. H. Redmond and Mrs. Victor Persse entertained at the tea-hour at Mrs. Redmond's home in Winnipeg on Friday last.

In compliment to their son, Mr. Bill Paxton, and his bride, formerly Miss Mary Hilda Clayton, of Vancouver, whose marriage took place in Vancouver last week, Mr. and Mrs. William Paxton were "at home" to their friends yesterday evening at their home on Michigan Street. The bride wore her bridal dress and was made the recipient of a corsage bouquet of pink carnations by the assembled guests who also presented the bride and bridegroom with a Pyrex baking dish on a silver salver, the presentation being made by Mrs. G. Menelaws. Scottish songs were contributed by Mrs. F. Saul, who has known the bridegroom since his infancy, and by Miss H. Barr, while community singing also formed part of the evening's program. Those present included Mrs. T. J. Jamieson, Mrs. G. Porteous, Mrs. J. Syme, Mrs. John Milton, Mrs. S. Honeychurch, Mrs. G. Little, Mrs. G. Menelaws, Miss A. Halliday, Miss Grace D. Leason, Miss H. Barr and Miss Ann Barr. Mr. and Mrs. Paxton Jr. will leave tomorrow afternoon for Vancouver where they will make their home.

Maurice Costello Has Part in Movie

HOLLYWOOD, Cal. (AP)—Sixty-one-year-old Maurice Costello, a headline stage name 30 years ago, went to work today—playing his first feature role in a talking picture.

"I'm trying to get in the back door," Costello said. "I simply had to have a job and told my friends so. I don't want to be dependent on others."

Director W. S. Van Dyke saw him on the M.G.M. lot and gave him a role in "Stand Up and Fight." It's a "speaking part," which means $25 a day and is good for three days.

Modern Etiquette

1. Does the player to the dealer's right cut the cards?
 2. Is continual "kidding" or boasting out of place at the bridge table?
 3. Should conversation cease entirely during a card game?
 4. Should reasonable promptness be used in bidding and playing?
 5. When dummy, is it necessary to pay close attention to the game?
- What would you do if—
You are asked to play an unfamiliar card game?
(a) Ask to have the rules explained?
(b) Bluff?
(c) Graciously refuse to play?

Answers

1. Yes, placing cut cards to ward dealer.
 2. No.
 3. No. Cards are played primarily for fun.
 4. Yes. A slow player is extremely annoying.
 5. Yes. You owe it to your partner.
- Best "What Would You Do?" solution—(c), or (a) if the game is simple.

Weddings

ROWLAND—SHEPHERD

All Saint's Church, Alberni, was the scene of a quiet wedding on Saturday evening, when Rev. Glen Stevenson united in marriage, Florence Eva, daughter of Mr. George Wallace Shepherd of Alberni, formerly of Aberdeen, Scotland, and the late Mrs. Shepherd, to Mr. Charles Peter Rowland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Rowland of Salt Spring Island.

The bride, who was given in marriage by Mr. John M. Hillier wore for the ceremony a smart tulle in shades of russet brown with hat and accessories to match, and corsage of Darwii roses. Mrs. Mabel Hillier was matron of honor and wore an ensemble of marine blue accented with white and corsage of pink carnations. After a short honeymoon trip to Victoria and the island, Mr. and Mrs. Rowland will take up residence on River Road, Alberni.

BRAGG—THOMAS

White chrysanthemums, asters and gladioli decorated First United Church, Port Alberni, on Saturday evening, when Dorothy Barbara, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Thomas of Sproat Lake was united in marriage to Mr. Lyle William Bragg, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Noble Searle Bragg of Celista, B.C. Rev. A. McLean officiated and Mrs. J. B. Wood provided the music, while acting as ushers were Mr. Alfred Bland and Mr. Clarence McLean. Mr. Richard A. Newall was best man.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in ice white satin taffeta, period styled, and her embroidered net veil had a halo coronet of mother of pearl leaves, outlined with orange blossom buds. She carried a shower bouquet of white carnations and pink rosebuds. Mrs. H. Hiquiebran, matron of honor, wore an Empire gown of peach-colored satin and net, with brimless hat of peach-toned satin and short flowing veil, her bouquet being of white carnations. Miss Margaret Thomas was her sister's bridesmaid, wearing rose-toned chiffon with satin stripe, her hair coronet and bouquet being of white carnations. During the signing of the register, Mrs. Fred McLean sang "Oh Promise Me," accompanied by Mrs. H. Pattinson.

Norway Hall was the setting for the reception which followed the ceremony, Mrs. Thomas receiving in a gown of marine blue georgette with corsage of gardenias. Poudre blue floral georgette fashioned the dress worn by the mother of the groom, with corsage of pink roses. Autumn flowers were used throughout the hall, and the bride's table, covered with a Madeira lace cloth, was centred by the three-tiered wedding cake, with lighted tapers, and vases of roses and Michaelmas daisies. After a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Bragg will take up residence at Sproat Lake.

ANDREWS—BERGTHOLDT

The United Church at White Rock, B.C., was the scene of a quiet wedding Saturday evening, October 15, when, in the presence of a few close friends, Rev. Lashley Hall united in marriage Jean Elizabeth, daughter of J. E. Bergtholdt, of Auburn, California, and Gerald Smedley Andrews of Victoria. Mr. Marc Gormley of Vancouver was groomsmen and Mrs. Fred Haggman of New Westminster attended the bride. The wedding march was played by Master Lashley Haggman.

After the ceremony, the bridal party were entertained at "Robin Hood," the home of Rev. and Mrs. Lashley Hall, where a three-tier wedding cake was cut by the bride. Later in the evening the couple left by motor for the Okanagan.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrews will be at home after November 1 at Cadboro Bay, Victoria. Mr. Andrews has been for years a forest engineer in the provincial forestry service. Mrs. Andrews was formerly connected with horticultural work in the Sacramento Valley.

Junior Catholics Aid Coast Missions

The Junior Catholic Women's League held their October meeting at the home of Miss Wenonah Scott, with a very good attendance. The president, Miss N. O'Connell, was in the chair. Encouraging reports were heard from all committees, and a vote of thanks was passed to all members for showing their goodwill and co-operation in all activities undertaken by juniors.

All proceeds from the showing of the Eucharistic pictures will be sent to aid Fr. Bradley's West Coast Mission. It was also decided to send a small offering to Fr. Kennedy's mission at Qualicum.

Tickets for the league dance, which will be held on Nov. 14, were distributed among the members.

Mrs. Rivers and Miss R. McQuire volunteered to work on the sick committee. Miss McQuire will also be in charge of collecting stamps.

Realizing the importance of having a parish library where all parishioners could become familiar with Catholic authors and Catholic viewpoints on world events, a small sum was set aside to make a beginning on such an endeavor.

The novelty stall for the annual bazaar will be convened by the president, assisted by all members. The next meeting will be at the home of Miss Pat Walsh.

The Anne Wilson Auxiliary of the First United W.M.S. held its annual thankoffering meeting yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. L. McNiven, Beach Drive. Mrs. D. L. Bowers sounded a note of encouragement from Mrs. Forbes' Missionary Monthly, and the worship theme commemorated the anniversary of the Honan mission, those contributing to this part of the program being Mrs. D. Leslie Macdonell, Mrs. R. H. McDougall and Mrs. R. E. Lamb. Mrs. Hugh McLeod and her guest, Mrs. Radcliffe of Edmonton, were welcomed by the president, Mrs. Alastair Campbell, Mrs. George Guy, presbyterial president, spoke of the mission work and inestimable dividends accruing through those who thus serve the cause of humanity. Many beautiful gifts, to be distributed at Christmas to mothers up the coast, were contributed, and will be sent to Rev. Latte. Assisting the hostess in serving tea were Mrs. D. L. Bowers, Mrs. C. Stephens and Mrs. Bartholomew.

Mrs. J. M. Lefevre Died Yesterday

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mrs. Lily Alice Lefevre, poetess and founder of the first branch of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire in British Columbia, died last night at "Langara-ravine," her Marine Drive home overlooking English Bay.

Mrs. Lefevre was a daughter of the late R. P. Cooke of Brockville, Ont. She was educated in Montreal. In 1883 she married Dr. John M. Lefevre and came to Vancouver three years later when her husband was appointed surgeon of the western division of the Canadian Pacific Railway. They crossed the Rocky Mountains in British Columbia before the railway was in public service.

Mrs. Lefevre founded the Corporation Chapter I.O.D.E. here August 19, 1902, the day King Edward VII was crowned. She also helped found the Vancouver Art Gallery and has been a prominent member of the Canadian Authors' Association.

Mr. Lefevre died in 1906 after taking a prominent part in development of Vancouver utility services.

Best known of Mrs. Lefevre's poetical works are "The Lion's Gate," published at the turn of the century, and "A Garden by the Sea," printed in Toronto and London some time later. Several of the lyrics in the latter volume have been set to music.

Since her husband's death she has traveled extensively. She is survived by a sister, Mrs. F. J. P. Gibson of Victoria. Mrs. P. A. O. Leask of Cobble Hill, B.C., is a niece, and Major F. J. P. Gibson of Cobble Hill is a nephew.

Funeral services will probably be held Wednesday at 10 a.m. in Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church here.

Chemainus

CHEMAINUS—The Women's Auxiliary to St. Michael's and All Angels' Church meeting Thursday decided to hold the annual sale of work on Nov. 17. Stall holders were appointed.

Arbutus Chapter I.O.D.E. met at the home of the regent and welcomed three new members, Mrs. Richard McBride, Mrs. Thomas McEwan and Miss Lily Wyllie. Tea hostesses were Miss Elizabeth Clement, Mrs. T. L. Larm and Mrs. R. Milligan.

Chemainus Garden Club met on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. J. Sandland. The president, Rev. T. L. Kipp, remarked on the recent competition and the prizes given. Garden work for next year was discussed. Nominations for president and secretary-treasurer were received, and the election will be held at the next meeting.

Luxton

A variety entertainment under the auspices of the Happy Valley Parent-Teacher Association was held Saturday evening in Luxton Hall. L. B. Matthews acting as chairman. Both senior and junior divisions were represented in the program in recitations, drill and play. Other numbers included piano solos by Miss Elaine Gill and vocal solos by Miss Elizabeth Welch and C. Abbott. The Happy Valley Orchestra rendered selections, and community singing was enjoyed.

Mrs. J. Trace conducted a hat-trimming contest, 10 gentlemen taking part. The judges, Mrs. J. Marcotte, J. Gill and A. Silman, awarded the prize to J. Blenkinsop.

College Porter Likes Modern Girls

By MATHILDE
 Times Correspondent

LONDON—A man who has been porter at a women's college for 36 years has declared that he prefers modern girls. It is seldom indeed that we hear praise about them.

He is Gustave William Robert, and he has just retired from his work as porter at Bedford College, London.

"I like the free-and-easy ways of the modern young ladies," he told me when I went to see him at the College Lodge near Regent's Park. "They have so much enthusiasm."

"But the young ladies a few years ago were charming, too," he added—the college was about half its size then.

"They looked lovely in their sweeping skirts. They were so modest and used to hide themselves away to smoke a cigarette. 'In all the years I've been here I've never come across one student I disliked,' he added.

WAR MOTHERS TO MEET

Mother who made great sacrifices in the war will come from 24 countries to take part in the opening ceremony of the Hall of Nations in Cardiff on November 23.

Lord Davies, who built the hall—also called the Temple of Peace—at his own expense at the cost of £62,000, is looking for the Welsh mother who made the greatest sacrifice in the war to take the central part in the opening ceremony.

"Round this typical Welsh woman mothers who also have experienced the sufferings and sacrifices of war from Great Britain, the Empire, and foreign countries will be gathered to dedicate the hall to the cause of international justice and peace and the welfare of future generations," Lord Davies told me when I went to see him about his scheme.

"It is the mother who suffers most when international law and order are set aside.

"In the mothers who are thinking today what war would mean to their children tomorrow there is a great will for peace."

With the exception of the United States, nations in the League of Nations only are being invited to send mothers.

The Hall of Nations is the first permanent building in Great Britain to be dedicated to the cause of international peace and justice. It contains two symbolic statues of justice and peace and two small altars on either side for the Lamp of Remembrance and the Covenant of the League of Nations.

The crypt has an altar in which will be placed the Book of Remembrance, which records the names of all the Welshmen who fell in the Great War. A page of this book will be turned every day.

Lord Davies is a great champion of the causes of health and peace. After serving in the war he was appointed parliamentary private secretary to Mr. Lloyd George in 1916.

Whitehouse of Metropolitan Church, was the speaker, and spoke on "Freely ye have received, freely give." Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

At the autumn thank-offering meeting of the First United W.P.M. yesterday afternoon, a program combining the thank-offering and the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the establishment of the United Church Mission in Honan, China, was presented by Mrs. F. W. Bowles. Others taking part were Mrs. J. A. Heritage, Mrs. Dawson, Mrs. Augustine, Mrs. Garrison, Mrs. Swainson and Miss Williams. Miss Rennie led in prayer and Mrs. (Dr.) Fraser led the dedicatory prayer. Mrs. R. W. Mayhew presided over the business meeting. A life membership, in recognition of long and faithful service, was presented to Mrs. W. G. Cameron by Mrs. M. McLennan. Miss J. Rattray, literature secretary, read a letter of thanks from Rev. Mr. Rattray of the west coast mission boat Melvin Swartout, for magazines and papers received, and an interesting report of the work carried on by Mr. Laife. Mrs. R. Wilson sang the hymn, "Tell Me the Old, Old Story," the members joining in the chorus, and the Mizpah Benediction brought the meeting to a close.

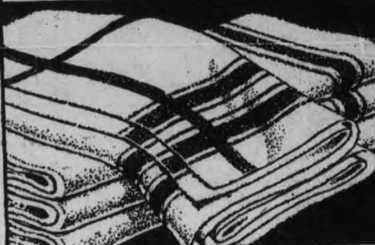

Preparations for the dance to be held by the Royal Bride Junior Chapter on Friday, November 25, at the Crystal Garden, are well in hand, it was announced at the monthly meeting of the chapter held Saturday afternoon at headquarters, Mrs. P. E. Corby, regent, in the chair. Interesting letters were read from Joyce Harvey and Marianne Wingate, who are attending the University of British Columbia and University of Washington. Aimee Heddie gave a talk on her impressions of Canada from her diary, as she came by train from England. Impromptu speeches were given by Betty Mulliner, who spoke on the advantages of an ice arena; Jean Ciceri, street cars and buses; Joy Savage, "Should Victoria Be Kept as a Bit of Old England or Should It Be Americanized"; Margaret Hughes, on impromptu speeches; Phyllis Porter, the Alaska-Yukon Highway; Margaret Delf, on Lady Tweedsmuir, and Davina Dingwall, on preference of living in Victoria or Vancouver. There will be impromptu speeches at the next meeting. A donation of $2 to help support the Mary Croft cot at the Solarium was voted. Miss Dorothy Davies was welcomed as a new member. The next meeting will be held on November 19.

Colwood

A parish meeting of St. John's Church was held Thursday evening in Colwood Hall, so as to fill the vacancy of people's warden, caused through the departure of Capt. James from the district. G. A. Turner was elected.

Salt Spring

A miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Doreen Crofton, a November bride-to-be, was given last Saturday evening by the Misses Edna Morris, Betty Kingsbury and Mrs. Raymond Morris, at the home of the former, Ganges Hill. Mauve and yellow chrysanthemums were effectively used as decorations for the reception and supper rooms, and the many useful gifts were presented to the guest of honor in cartons by Mrs. R. Morris.

Members of the Ganges Trail Rangers enjoyed a happy time at Ganges House under the supervision of C. F. Mouat. Games and contests were enjoyed, and before leaving the youngsters were served with refreshments.

A whist drive arranged by the senior pupils of Ganges elementary school was held in Mahon Hall. First prize for ladies was won by Miss E. Mohrman, Mrs. Arthur Inglis taking second. First gentlemen's prize went to W. Jameski, C. W. Baker winning second prize, Kenneth Goodrich taking the consolation prize. Bryan Inglis won the prize for highest score at the lucky table.

The Women's Institute of Fulford Harbor decided to hold a jam shower for the benefit of Queen Alexandra Solarium, and to hold a 500 card party in November at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Shaw. It was also decided to hold a New Year's dance in the Community Hall at Fulford. A report was given by Miss B. Hamilton on the recent provincial conference in Victoria.

The Ganges Chapter I.O.D.E. held a sale and tea on Thursday afternoon at Ganges House. The proceeds for the chapter funds amounted to over $55.

On Friday afternoon the Women's Auxiliary to the Church of England met at Ganges House. A social afternoon and miscellaneous sale was arranged for Oct. 22.

TORCHY PEDEN has finally landed his world record. Victoria's great six-day bicycle rider now holds more victories than any other man in the history of the sport. In Montreal Saturday night the big red-head marked up his 32nd triumph. And how appropriate his record-smashing victory should be accomplished with brother Doug as his partner. The triumph was just that much sweeter, too, when it meant the first win for the Pedens over that tough German combination of Heinz Vopel and Gustav Killan.

For two years Torch and Doug have been trying to whip the Germans. Several times it looked like they would turn the trick, only to have the Europeans come through in the final day of riding, and in a couple of instances it was the final hour of sprinting that meant the difference between victory and defeat. But the locals finally came through, and when they did it meant a world record for Torch.

Another odd feature about the making of the record is that Torch started his six-day bike racing career, back in October, 1929, on that same Montreal track. In that race he was partnered with Bill Coles and finished in second position. It marked the launching of one of the most brilliant professional bike riding careers in history.

Since that first race Torch has experienced a career chock full of highlights. He has ridden in six-day races in many countries on the continent, England, and in all the major cities of Canada and the United States. He attended two Olympic Games, Los Angeles in 1932 as coach of the Canadian cycling team, and Berlin in 1936 as a spectator, although he did lend Archie McKinnon, track coach, some valuable assistance in keeping the Canadian boys in condition.

Nine years in the six-day bike racing game is a long time for a rider who puts as much into his work as Torch. He has established his world record, and we would not be surprised if the big fellow decides to cut loose from the sport either at the end of the present season or after one more year. He has established young Doug firmly in the business and that worry is over. From reports Doug is capable of holding his own in any kind of company, and promises to become as great a rider as his famous teacher.

In his nine years of riding Torch has not gone unscathed. He has suffered plenty of painful injuries, but none that kept him off his iron steed for any great length of time. In looking over his record it is interesting to note the many, many riders he has had for partners. They include such famous names as Reg Fielding, Al Crossley, Jules Audy, Reggie McNamara, Franco Georgetti, Fred Spencer, Alfred Letourner, Henri LePage and Fred Ottavare.

We hear reports that a big percentage of the students and players at the University of Washington are again campaigning for the dismissal of Jimmy Phelan, head football coach of the Huskies. Phelan, who is working on a three-year contract, has been in hot water the last couple of seasons, but so far has been able to hold his job in the face of stiff criticism.

However, the present edition of the Huskies has only to drop a few more matches and Phelan will be out. Jimmy started the season with what critics called a wonder team. It has proven a "wonder" squad all right, but the wrong way. After dropping their first match to Minnesota in the east, the Huskies returned home to suffer the humiliation of being held to a tie by the University of Idaho, long a doormat for the men of Washington. Then they fell flat on their faces before U.C.L.A., and Saturday suffered another defeat at the hands of Oregon State.

If the Huskies lose many more matches Victoria members of the Washington alma mater will be left without even bus fare. As a matter of fact one of their fair sex supporters said to me on Monday: "That's the last time I am going to bet on them this season. Imagine their being beaten by Oregon State and tied by Idaho." Tsh, tsh, my young miss. Remember that old saying, all gamblers die broke.

Four Major Squads in Action Saturday at Macdonald Park Pitches

Four of Victoria's "big five" rugby fifteens, J.B.A.A., Navy, Scottish and Wanderers, will take over Macdonald Park Saturday afternoon when they open the senior race for the Barnard Cup, league championship trophy. Bob McInnes's J.B.A.A. brigade, winners of the league trophy last year, will start the new season pitted against the Canadian Scottish on the top pitch at the James Bay enclosure, with Bud Pangman tooting the whistle.

The other engagement on the lower pitch starting at the same time, will bring together Oak Bay Wanderers and the bluejackets from the Naval Barracks, with E. J. Symons refereeing. Garrison, the fifth member of the "big five," was granted a bye by request. Some of their best material was still not available.

Both engagements should produce a good brand of rugby for opening fixtures as the teams have been working out regularly for the past few weeks, and are all pepped up for the delayed start.

BAYS POWERFUL

The J.B.A.A. club will trot out a powerful line-up for the opener against the Highlanders. Most of last year's championship material will be in harness for the oarsmen. The Scottish, which did not have a senior squad in operation last year, will have most of its last year's senior B team in there fighting for senior laurels.

The Wanderers are ready for action with a well-balanced team, and should make things plenty interesting for the Navy. The Oak Bay club has most of its last year's stars, and some fast intermediate rugger moved up. The Navy boys have been working out regularly, and will send a team onto the field sprinkled with senior B players and some new material.

Intermediate games for Saturday follow:

Wanderers vs. Scottish, Beacon Hill; referee, Lieut. Commander K. Roberts.

Navy Whites vs. College, High School; referee, Percy Sweetnam.

All games will start at 3. Mayor Andrew McGavin will be asked to open the new pitch at Beacon Hill, bordering on Douglas Street, while Alderman John Worthington and Capt. V. G. Brodeur, captain-in-charge at Esquimalt and Senior Naval Officer, West Coast, will be asked to officiate at the senior openers at Macdonald Park.

At last night's meeting of the Victoria Rugby Union Tom Carney and Alex Anderson were granted transfer from the Canadian Scottish to Oak Bay Wanderers. Campbell Forbes's application for transfer to the Wanderers was refused. He will be asked to play for the Scottish. The meeting was informed that Buckler, would be back with the Scots this season.

Victoria Rugby Union delegates to the B.C.R.U. meeting in Victoria Saturday will attempt to arrange for a visit of the Stanford University rugger here. Major Stuart Robertson, chairman, reported that St. John's Ambulance brigade would be on hand to render service again this season.

Traynor Signed For Another Year

PITTSBURGH — Although the Pirates missed out on the gold and glory of this year's National League pennant, manager Pie Traynor has signed a new one-year contract at an increase in salary, the Pittsburgh baseball club announced today.

Informed observers said Traynor probably would receive around $17,000 or $18,000 for his fifth full season with Pirates.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA WHIPS OHIO STATE—The old #14 that has prevented Ohio State from ever beating a Pacific Coast football team was working full blast when the Buckeyes met the Southern California Trojans at Columbus, Ohio won the statistics, outgaining their western foes and making 14 first downs to their five. But the final score read: Southern California 14, Ohio State 7. In the photo above, substitute quarterback Oliver Day of the Trojans appears about to sail gaily through that large hole in the centre of the Ohio line. But a second later he was stopped in his tracks as the five dark-shirted Ohio tacklers converged on him.

BLACK SPECK NOW CHOICE FOR RACE

Picked to Capture Cesarewitch Following Scratching of Punch

LONDON—James V. Rank's Black Speck was restored as favorite for the Cesarewitch in last night's callover of odds at the Victoria club. The race will be run at Newmarket, October 26 over a course of 2 1/4 miles.

Black Speck was quoted at 100 to 8. A fraction divided him from the second choice, J. P. Hornung's Dubonnet, who had been favorite over the week-end. New odds on Dubonnet were 13 to 1.

It was announced Tom Westhead's Punch, one of the favored horses, was scratched following a leg injury.

Other odds were: Solonaise, 100 to 7; Snipe Wood, 15 to 1; Snake Lightning, Contrevent and Fet, 17 to 1; Love's Legend, Olympus, and Earth Stopper, 22 to 1; Stainless Stephen, Queen's Shilling and Nettledew, 25 to 1; Harewood and Mubarak, 28 to 1; Fox Star and Celebrate II, 33 to 1; Ranfield, 40 to 1; Gyro and Near Relation, 50 to 1; Holne Chase, 66 to 1; Respondent, 80 to 1; Valerian and Sir Calidore, 100 to 1.

ARCHIBALD NEW BOXING CHAMP

Whips Beloise to Gain New York Recognition As Featherweight Ruler

NEW YORK — Stocky Joey Archibald of Providence, R.I., pummeled Mike Beloise, dapper idol of New York's neighborhood fight clubs, into submission and won the featherweight championship of the world as far as New York state is concerned at the St. Nicholas Arena last night. Archibald weighed 124 1/2, Beloise, 125 1/4 for the 15 round bout.

The 6,000 fans who jammed the ancient arena saw one of the best fights between little men New York has had in years. Archibald, less polished than Beloise, took command in the second, held it until the seventh, lost it to Beloise's superior boxing ability for three rounds, and then surged back in the last two to gain the unanimous decision of the judges.

HAS OPERATION

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — Surgeons removed "a loose body" from the right arm of Hal Schumacher, New York Giant baseball hurler, at a hospital here Friday, hospital attaches disclosed yesterday.

The operation was similar to that performed several weeks ago on Carl Hubbell, ace of the Giants' mound staff. Schumacher was reported "feeling fine." He will remain here several weeks for treatment.

Stirling Leader

Plunger of Sarnia Imperials Off on Another Scoring Spurge in Eastern Canada Football; Crucial Games This Week

Coaches and players of the Ontario Rugby Football Union, who spent quite some time last year trying to figure out ways of stopping Hugh (Bummer) Stirling of Sarnia Imperials, without any noticeable effect, have the same problem all over again this season but don't seem to be any nearer a solution.

After two weeks of play, Stirling, defending his eastern football scoring championship, leads the O.R.F.U. point-makers with 15 points, and is tied with two men from the Interprovincial Union for the section lead.

And Bummer has collected his points—a touchdown, field goal, six singles and a convert—against Montreal Nationals and Toronto Balmies, neither of them exactly weaklings in any league. Stan O'Neill of Ottawa Rough Riders and Art West of Toronto Argonauts have also 15 points to their credit, but they have come in against weaker big four teams.

All of which makes the performance of the one-man powerhouse of the Imperials pretty impressive. It also helps explain why Sarnia is up there in a first place tie with Nationals at the moment.

WESTMAN IS FINE

Nobody has attempted to deny that Herb Westman is a big reason why McGill is sitting up top of the intercollegiate heap at present, only team in the three major eastern circuits to hold a clean-cut lead. From the evening Westman first turned out for practice this season after a year's layoff, railbirds hailed him as a find—the greatest kicker McGill has had in many a year. Herbie hasn't done anything yet to make them change their minds.

Varsity's hopes of stopping the Redmen took another setback yesterday when it was found Ted Jarvis, who had been going strong on the end, suffered a broken hand in Saturday's game against McGill and probably will be out for the season.

The loss was a particularly heavy one just as Varsity were preparing for next week-end's battle with Western. At least, the winner will have undisputed possession of second place, and would move into a tie with McGill if Queen's should happen to come through with the victory for which they are just about due over the Redmen.

Leadership in at least one of the other two circuits ought to be cleared up a bit after the week-end games. Toronto Argonauts start workouts today for their Saturday task of attempting to stop Ottawa's Rough Riders. A victory would put either team in undisputed possession of the Big Four leadership.

Toronto Balmies Beach, fresh from an 18 to 2 victory over Peterborough Orfuns, would slip into second place in the O.R.F.U. if they could eke out a victory over Nationals at Montreal.

Doyle Released On $1,000 Bail

HOLLYWOOD — Jack Doyle, who sings, boxes and travels in society, but who currently is involved in a dispute with the United States immigration service, remarked today how nice it was to be out of jail.

"I was never so embarrassed and humiliated," he declared. "It's the first time I've ever been in such a predicament. They say I entered the United States illegally, but I don't see how that can be, for I have all of my credentials with me."

International Soccer Teams

England and Wales Names Elevens for Match At Cardiff, October 22

CARDIFF, Wales — Five Arsenal players will take part in the international soccer match between England and Wales to be played at Ninian Park here, October 22. The Welsh forward line will include three Gunners and England is drawing on the London club for two defence stars.

It is expected the 11 chosen to represent England in the match will also play against a representative European team at Highbury, London, October 27. In view of the great improvement in the standard of football played on the Continent in recent years the Englishmen will have to play at top form to win.

England has defeated Wales 36 times since the series started in 1873. The Welshmen are credited with 10 triumphs, while 10 games were drawn. Last season the countries met at Middlesbrough, England winning, 2 to 1.

Three Everton players have been called on, and Huddersfield Town, Birmingham and Tottenham Hotspurs supply two each.

The teams: Wales—Goal, John (Swansea Town); backs, Whately (Tottenham Hotspurs), Hughes (Birmingham); halfbacks, Green (Charlton Athletic), T. G. Jones (Everton), Richards (Birmingham); forwards, Hopkins (Brentford), L. Jones (Arsenal), Astley (Derby County), Bryn Jones, Cummer (Arsenal).

England—Goal, Woodley (Chelsea); backs, Roston (Tottenham Hotspurs), Hapgood (Arsenal); halfbacks, Willingham, Young (Huddersfield Town), Copping (Arsenal); forwards, Matthews (Sheffield Wednesday), Lawton (Everton), Goulden (West Ham United), Boyes (Everton).

Basketball at Esquimalt Gym

Opening of the Esquimalt Athletic Association gym on Fraser Street for the 1938-39 winter season will take place on Thursday evening when four basketball games are staged.

The card follows: 7.15—Esquimalt Wanderers vs. Esquimalt Aces. 7.45—Esquimalt Albions vs. Esquimalt V-Eights. 8.15—Esquimalt intermediates vs. Esquimalt Juniors. 9.00—Esquimalt Seniors vs. Navy.

The final game between Esquimalt and the Navy will mark the opening of the Saanich and Suburban Basketball League.

Reeve Alex Lockley of Esquimalt will toss up the first ball.

ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the Lower Vancouver Island Badminton League will be held at the Y.M.C.A., Friday evening at 8. Officers for the coming season will be named, and many other important matters discussed. All clubs are asked to have delegates present.

Entries for the Dr. Lewis Hall Cup series for intermediate football teams will close on Saturday at 6.

Major Hockey Openers Should Produce Action

Hockey Gossip

The word is out that Montreal Canadiens will be among the hot test things in the National Hockey League this coming season. Everyone has known all along the Frenchmen would fly again, after getting six additions from the defunct Montreal Maroons, but now goalie Wilf Cude is calling them to finish first or second.

Cude, who has played behind some great combinations in his years with Detroit and Canadiens, declared after yesterday's workout at Lachine arena that "this team should be out in front all season, barring too many injuries." He qualified that by admitting the Habits might finish second, but the little Welsh jitterbug couldn't see them doing worse than that.

Wilf had to predict through a gashed lip, which he used to block a rising shot from rookie Wilf Hoch in practice Sunday. The cut needed six stitches and the goalie is still taking all his nourishment through tubes.

New York's two clubs, Rangers and Americans, are gathering steam in training faster than any of the other N.H.L. teams. The Americans will leave their headquarters at Saskatoon this week to begin a six-game exhibition series with the Rangers Thursday at Winnipeg, where Lester Patrick's blueshirts have been drilling.

Patrick already has designated his son, Murray, to replace Joe Cooper on the Ranger defence and apparently has decided on Dutch Hillier to take Bobby Kirk's forward berth. Cooper and Kirk have been relegated to the Philadelphia farm.

"I didn't care about getting any other amateur this year as long as I got Joe Benoit," manager Red Dutton of the Americans said at the recent league meeting. And Benoit, a forward with Trill's Dominion senior champions last season, is one of two amateurs Dutton has had working out with his 1937-38 regulars. The other is Pat Egan of Calgary, who with Wilf Field from Seattle is seeking the defence spot left vacant by departure of Ching Johnson to manage Minneapolis' American Association entry.

Toronto Maple Leafs couldn't wait when they headed for their training quarters at Preston, Ont., yesterday, so they stopped at Galt for an ice workout. The big Leaf squad will commute between Preston and Galt during the preparedness campaign.

Detroit Red Wings were balked by the October heat wave, which melted the ice in Detroit Olympia. The unusual weather already had cut chunks of weight from the Wings, who have been working like Trojans to regain the pedestal from which they thudded last winter.

Only Eddie Shore was missing when Boston Bruins took the ice for their first workout at Hershey, Pa. The veteran defenceman is en route east from his prairie farm, where the barley crop has just been brought in.

City Championship Table Tennis Play

With interest in the game at its highest pitch in years, officials of the Victoria Table Tennis Association are anticipating a record entry for the annual city championship tournament to be held November 3, 4 and 5 in the Crystal Garden headquarters.

All last year's champions will be on hand to defend the laurels they won last year.

SCOTTISH WORKOUT

A workout of the Scottish senior rugby squad will be held this evening at 7 at Macdonald Park. All members of the team are asked to attend.

Coy Nominated for Athletic Trophies

WINNIPEG—Eric Coy of Winnipeg, Canada's leading point scorer at the British Empire Games at Sydney, Australia, last night was nominated by the Manitoba branch of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada for the Norton H. Crowe Memorial Trophy.

Budge Wants $100,000

OAKLAND (AP)—J. Donald Budge, the world's leading amateur tennis player, admitted today $25,000 was all that was keeping him out of the professional ranks. Budge said he had been offered $75,000 for a one-year tour but wants at least $100,000. The offer was made by Jack Harris, Chicago sports promoter.

"I told him I wouldn't accept for less than $100,000," Budge said. "He said he would call me back later."

Toronto and Boston to Resume Feud

Keenest Rivals in N.H.L. Battle Nov. 3; Americans Oppose Hawks

MONTREAL (CP)—The intense rivalry between Boston Bruins and Toronto Maple Leafs, something which had the turnstiles clicking merrily all last season, finds a renewal November 3 as the two teams meet at Toronto in one of two games which open the National Hockey League schedule of 1938-39.

The world champion Chicago Black Hawks start at home the same night against New York Americans, according to the new schedule released today by league president Frank Calder. New York Rangers will be the last team to swing into action, playing November 13 at Detroit against Red Wings.

A "natural" touch is lent the Boston-Toronto opener, however, by the fact the teams undoubtedly are the greatest rivals in present-day professional hockey; that each team finished first last year in respective sections, and because they are high-goal scoring outfits and play heavy-hitting hockey defensively.

As proof that Bruins are an attraction in Toronto, the attendance record in Maple Leaf Gardens there was shattered twice last year when they played Leafs. Both contests drew near the 15,000 mark.

The paying customer in Toronto likes nothing better than to see Leafs beat Bruins, something the Toronto team accomplished in three straight games last year for the N.H.L. championship. Leafs lost then in the final of the Stanley Cup to Black Hawks, but the rabid Toronto fan is convinced it really was the gruelling series against Bruins that led to the team's downfall against Hawks.

NEW PLAYOFF SYSTEM

At one time there was a more bitter rivalry between Montreal's two N.H.L. teams, Maroons and Canadiens, but in late years that tempestuous spirit cooled almost completely. Maroons disbanded earlier this year, leaving only seven teams in the league which will operate now as one section instead of in two divisions, as in years past. Six of the seven teams will make the playoffs for the Stanley Cup.

By the time Rangers play their opening contest, Maple Leafs will have played four games and two other teams will have played three times each. On the same night as Rangers oppose Detroit, Canadiens and Black Hawks will clash at Chicago in what will be the fourth of the new season for each team.

Hawks play Leafs in Toronto November 5, and then help Canadiens open the season in Montreal the following night, a Sunday. Canadiens will have four Sunday dates this season, the first time Montreal has had regular Sunday professional hockey. While Canadiens are receiving Hawks, Bruins will usher in the season at Detroit against Red Wings. The 48-game schedule ends March 19 with Canadiens at Boston, Toronto at Rangers and Chicago at Detroit.

Pacific Club Golf Tourney Tomorrow

Annual Pacific Club championship golf tournament will be held at the Colwood Club tomorrow afternoon. Play will be 18 holes medal on full handicap. The E. G. Maynard Cup will be at stake. Post entries will be accepted.

The draw follows:

1.45—F. H. A. Norton, Col. J. Kingham, J. S. Oliphant and A. V. King.

1.50—C. E. Brown, B. Hunnings, J. R. Morris and Wm. Munro.

1.50—O. C. Leach, Dr. F. Bryant, C. Denham and G. Simpson.

2.00—P. Bell, W. Boorman, C. Heisterman and K. Sangster.

2.05—L. Batchelor, G. R. Naden, B. S. Heisterman and F. White.

2.10—R. W. MacKenzie, A. Knox, A. C. Falk and D. C. Gordon.

2.15—R. Laird and H. Slight.

II—THE TREATY OF PEACE

After Germany had lost the World War, this question came: "What shall be written into the treaty of peace?"

In nations on the winning side, not all persons were agreed about the right terms for the treaty. Six months passed before it was ready.

"Germany was guilty of the war," said some. "The Germans carried it on in the most horrible way, using poison gas, bombing people in cities, sinking ships and letting the passengers die."

"Since Germany did those things, we must punish her. We must take away a good deal of her land, and make her pay thousands of millions of dollars for the terrible destruction in France and Belgium, and other damage done by her soldiers and sailors."

Others, but not so many, took a different viewpoint. They said:

"It is true that Germany did great damage, but there is damage in all wars. The lesson of history shows that harsh terms of peace lead to new wars. Let us call the World War a bad job for everyone, and start over and build Europe up again, in a spirit of kindness and humanity."

The treaty was written at Versailles, a suburb of Paris. Lloyd George of Great Britain, Clemenceau of France, Orlando of Italy, and Wilson of the United States did most of the work of making the terms of peace.

Here are a few of the terms in the Treaty of Versailles:

Germany shall give back to France the provinces of Alsace and Lorraine, which she took away in the Franco-Prussian War.

Germany shall give up pieces of land to Poland, Denmark and Belgium. (In each case there were claims that the lands had not rightfully belonged to Germany.)

Germany shall give up all her merchant ships of more than 1,000 tons.

For a period of 15 years, Germany shall give up the output of the coal mines in the Saar Valley.

Germany shall give up her colonies in Africa and Asia.

Germany shall pay a sum of money to the Allies.

The amount of money was fixed at $33,000,000,000. That was about as much as all the land and buildings in Germany were worth at market prices!

Clemenceau has been blamed for making the peace treaty as hard as it was. Perhaps it was natural for a Frenchman whose nation had suffered so much to be bitter, but it is not plain that he helped France. We later shall see how Hitler was able to use the peace treaty as an excuse to build up his power.

HOROSCOPE

Wednesday, October 19, 1938

Conflicting planetary aspects are active today, according to astrology. It is a favorable day for advertising and all forms of publicity.

After the morning hours the judgment may be unreliable. Deceptive influences may be prevalent in business and governmental affairs.

Women should be especially cautious in social and professional interests. The tendency to pretense will be apparent among persons of all classes.

Growth of organizations with revolutionary aims will be rapid through the coming winter. Workers will register discontent with the established order of things.

Girls should attend strictly to their business, professional and social interests while this configuration prevails; they should avoid romantic complications.

Danger of accidents may be widespread; quarrels may be easily started under this way, which may indicate new international crises.

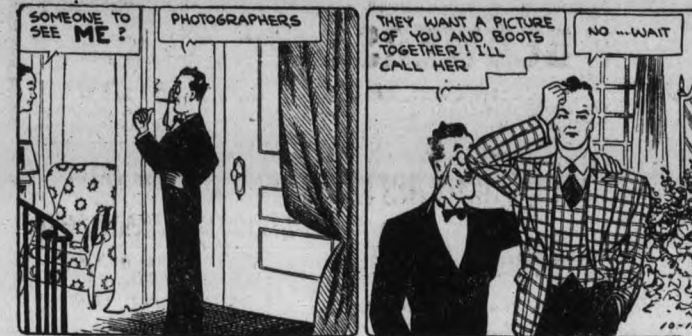

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of fair success. Women may be helpful in financial problems.

Children born on this day probably will be fond of mental and physical exertion. Subjects of this sign usually are keen, clever and successful.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX—What, oh, what, is wrong with me? I can't take life in a happy way. And why? I am only 15, but I am so miserable I have been on the verge of committing suicide many times, yet I have nothing to be miserable about. Nothing interests me. Nothing seems worthwhile. And I see no use in going on living. Can you suggest any remedy for my trouble?

WORRIED GIRL.

Answer: Sure. Nothing easier. All that ails you is just being 15. All that you need to do is just to let nature take its course, and in a year or two you will outgrow the morbidness that is nearly always a feature of adolescence.

Besides, 15 is about the most uncomfortable age there is for a girl. It is a time of life when she doesn't fit in anywhere, when she is neither child nor woman, but an antagonistic blend of the two that keeps her own soul in a state of turmoil and confusion, and that makes her a terror to her family.

It is a time when it is hard for her to amuse herself, because she is too old to play with dolls and not old enough to have dates and when neither the children nor the grown-ups want her as a companion. So, unless her family is able and wise enough to send her off to school among other 15-year-olds, she is likely to be lonesome and bored, as you are. Yet the way to happiness and to make life worth while when you are 15 or 55 or any age is the same. It consists in thinking as little about yourself as possible and as much about other people as you can.

You can always find misery if you hunt for it. You can always borrow trouble if you ask for it. There is no man or woman so fortunately situated that he or she can't make himself or herself utterly wretched by dwelling on the disillusion and disappointments of life. On the contrary, there are none of us who cannot find something to make whoopee about if we would only count our blessings.

The real secret of happiness is to be found in unselfishness. If you will get busy trying to be a little ray of sunshine in your home and doing things for your mother and father and sisters and brothers, you will find a meaning to life and no longer be miserable.

SAN FRANCISCO
GIRL ABDUCTED

High School Student
Taken by Man to Shack, Then Released

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Police said today Viola M. Slatery, 18, was abducted yesterday and was released from a bare-walled cabin "four hours" from San Francisco "only because her father at Applegate, Calif., was jobless and unable to pay ransom."

The high school girl, employed as a domestic, told Officer Max B. Reznik she was halted yesterday on her way to school and forced into a sedan at revolver-point by a man who bound, blindfolded and gagged her.

The man took her to a vacant shack, Reznik quoted her as saying, and after removing the blindfold asked whether her father had money. When she answered in the negative, she said the abductor replied: "Well, I've got to get something out of this."

He took $10 from her purse, Miss Slatery said, then replaced the blindfold, drove for a time and then pushed her violently from the car.

Extra Two Months Added
To Term After Vancouver
Courtroom Scene

VANCOUVER (CP)—Three unemployed men can thank 24 companions for the extra two months added to their sentences after conviction in police court today on charges of obstructing police.

The 24 had been convicted on the same charges and sentenced to four months in prison each when they disrupted court proceedings by lusty singing of "Hold the Fort" while in the prisoners' room awaiting trial of the other three.

"The only thing to do with these men is to increase the ante," Magistrate H. S. Wood said as he adjourned the court for five minutes while the prisoners' room was cleared.

William Yeomans and John Staiforth pleaded not guilty when the court resumed. Both were convicted and sentenced to six months each. They had been arrested yesterday with the other 24 when they attempted to solicit aid on city streets.

Orvel Doherty, the third man, was also convicted and sentenced to six months. He had been arrested on the same charge Saturday.

To See Work at Privateer Mine

Victorians and Vancouverites Will Witness
Pouring of Gold Brick

Shades of the Klondike gold rush days were brought to mind at the C.P.R. docks yesterday as several hundred excursionists left to see the pouring of the first gold brick of the Privateer Mine at Zeballos.

Officials of the company, representatives of prominent business firms in Vancouver and Victoria, and delegates from civic organizations, and their wives, were included in the party which landed at Zeballos this morning.

As the ship pulled out, those aboard were entertained with tunes from the bagpipes by Alex "Sandy" Watson, manager of the Fort Street branch of the Royal Bank of Canada.

The trip was one arranged by the company for the shareholders and specially invited guests, including Hon. W. J. Asselstine, Minister of Mines, and other provincial officials. The Ss. Princess Norah was chartered for the occasion.

Streamers and confetti were exchanged between ship and shore as the guests boarded the ship and, just before the sailing, pictures of a portion of the excursionists were snapped from the dock.

On arrival at the west coast mining field today the party was met by company officials stationed at Zeballos and entertained at luncheon, after which the Privateer Mine and other operations were inspected.

The pouring of the brick was arranged for tomorrow with a dinner and dance to follow in the evening. The boat will leave immediately after the dance and arrive back here Thursday.

Included in the Vancouver delegation were: Howard Mitchell, editor of the Financial News; J. G. Callan of Jackson Bros., Toronto, and Morley Shier of the Canadian Industries, Ltd. Capt. R. W. McMurray, manager of the B.C. Coast Service also accompanied the party.

GOODWILL SUBJECT OF DISCUSSION

Credit Granters Seek Improved Relations Between Themselves and Customers

Len Cox led a discussion during which suggestions were given on how to stimulate goodwill in the promotion of sales between the customer and the credit grantor at a luncheon meeting of the Credit Granters' Association in Spencer's dining-room today.

It was noted that the impression the credit man makes on the customer was a prominent factor in the promotion of goodwill and further sales. In most cases the credit man paid more attention to the impressions he got from the customer.

The sending of letters by the credit grantor to the customer showing appreciation of prompt payment was also discussed as a goodwill measure. Letters could also be sent showing appreciation of a sale in which the credit terms would be added. Letters of condolence to customers who had suffered a bereavement would show a friendly feeling and also bind the customer closer with the store.

In retaining customers there was less need of attracting new ones, Mr. Cox said. In analyzing the accounts of customers from time to time, the credit man should be able to interest them in further purchases to go with the account already on the books of the store. Future sales could also be pointed out.

Goodwill in the promotion of sales could be stimulated through the sales department of the store. People already in the store were the easiest to sell to. The co-operation of the sales clerk was needed here.

The meeting was presided over by L. E. Evenden.

All information concerning times of arrival may be obtained upon inquiry at the local post office.

DRAMA OVERLAP
TO BE DISCUSSED

B.C. Drama Festival
Association Will Hold
Annual Meeting Tomorrow

Reorganization will be discussed at the annual general meeting of the British Columbia Drama Festival Association to be held in the City Hall tomorrow night. Jack Barraclough will preside in the absence of Major L. Bullock-Webster, president, who is confined to his home.

The resignation of Herbert E. Pott, vice-president, will be accepted. His loss will be keenly felt, as he has guided the association since its founding. H. Roy Goldfinch, secretary, and H. G. Hinton, treasurer, will remain in office.

In his annual report the president will stress the need for co-operation between the various drama festivals, pointing out that the increase in their number since the founding of the B.C. drama festival nine years ago had caused rivalry that will eventually put them out of business. "The public can only absorb so much," he observes.

Particularly important is the competition between the Dominion drama festival and that of B.C., he says. There should be no overlapping in this case because the teams competing in the former need financial backing, whereas the provincial festival is specifically for small community groups. These latter are the backbone of amateur drama. He points out that the only source of income for the provincial drama festival is the box-office receipts. Everything else is gratuitous. There is no entrance fee, no charge for programs, no membership fee, no appeal for donations.

Co-operation between the two societies in the elimination festivals might be one possible solution.

Imperial Oil Director
Says Firm Will "Take Necessary Action"

VANCOUVER (CP)—A. E. Halverson, director of Imperial Oil Limited and manager of its western operations, said here today his company would "take such action when and as necessary" should the British Columbia government follow its "indicated source" of ordering a 3-cent reduction in the retail price of gasoline sold in the province.

Mr. Halverson's statement: "Imperial Oil Limited cannot but take cognizance of the statement from Victoria yesterday afternoon which indicates that the government through its agencies, without consideration for industry or outside capital employed in the province, or of the many shareholders who look to Imperial Oil Limited for the proper protection of their interests, has seen fit to announce, regardless of the fact that the company and the industry are losing money today in the province, that the government will fix prices at lower levels, which will endanger the trust the shareholder has in the company, and which if carried out will mean that lower price gasoline will only be obtained at the expense of capital employed in the business."

HERE 40 YEARS
"It should be borne in mind that Imperial Oil Ltd. is a part and parcel of Canadian development, and in particular has been a resident, a citizen and a business enterprise in British Columbia for some 40 years, and has during that time not only taken a particular interest in the growth of the province, in the welfare of the people and in its many employees, agents, dealers, etc., but fostered their goodwill to the extent that many employees of the company's British Columbia operations have today been with the company 25 and 30 years."

"Were this not so, Imperial Oil Ltd. could make statements to the effect that drastic steps would be taken, but it still has confidence in the province and a desire to continue its operations through these trying times, as it feels definitely that this government in British Columbia today, nor any other government, can for long by the powers vested in it through the people, legislate to the extent that industry can be crippled so that reasonable return on investment cannot be earned."

"Imperial Oil can only take note of the proposed action, and with due consideration to its employees, its shareholders and the public, take such action when and as necessary, should the government follow its indicated course, all with due consideration for the principles of sound business and its part in the development of British Columbia, of which it has been an integral part for many years and up to the present time."

"Our future and the future of industry we feel will depend on those who are in power to legislate fairly to the interests of the public for better or for worse."

Jonathan Apples
On Market Now

Okanagan produce shipments to Wholesale Row have been numerous during the last few days.

In addition to Okanagan Delicious apples now on the market, a shipment of the district's Jonathan variety received yesterday, have been placed on sale. A carload of Okanagan onions was received this morning. Anjou peaches arrived yesterday.

A shipment of new-crop dates, the first of the season, and of exceptionally fine quality, arrived on the Empress of Asia yesterday. The dates are from Basra in Mesopotamia.

Texas grapefruit are on the market. Shipments are being received daily. A shortage of California and Arizona grapefruit is being felt. Shipments from these districts are expected at the end of the week.

There are still limited quantities of October peaches and Italian prunes on the market.

It was also reported that pomegranates are on the market.

Marler Suit
Against Father

TORONTO (CP)—A writ asking $300,000 damages was issued today in the Ontario Supreme Court by Leonard Marler against his father, Sir Herbert Marler, Canadian minister of the United States, and Dr. George H. Stevenson, superintendent of the Ontario Mental Hospital at London, Ont.

Head Tells of London
During Crisis Week

Britain's Prime Minister, Neville Chamberlain, was compared to Abraham Lincoln today by James Colquhoun, former president of the Arizona Copper Company, who left England two days after the Munich conference had pulled Europe back from the brink of war.

He found there was the same inward struggle in support of similar ideals in the two men.

Mr. and Mrs. Colquhoun will spend the next month at the Empress Hotel. Their home is now in London, but they spend each winter out of England, often in California.

Mr. Colquhoun said he believed Germany sincerely wanted Britain as an ally and that only through such an alliance could peace come in Europe. He added he thoroughly trusted the Russians and believed they were no better soldiers now than at the time of the Great War.

Hitler, he said, was no fool, but his persecution of the Jews was his greatest mistake. By it Britain had gained enormously, for distinguished engineers and chemists had brought not only their services to England, but also the results of research work and a number of secret processes.

Mr. Colquhoun gave a vivid picture of London during the week of crisis. It was impossible to move anywhere in the city during the afternoons, he said, because of the masses of school children being evacuated to the country with their teachers. During the historic seven days the churches were filled as they had never been before.

On the subject of the world copper market, he said it was not only the war threat in Europe but also a general business recovery in the United States which had caused the international copper cartel to remove its restrictions on copper trading.

Mr. Colquhoun, who was 25 years head of the Arizona Copper Company, is also a writer.

His most notable book is "Adventures in Red Russia," the story of his own experiences in Russia at the time of the revolution.

Sent out to reorganize the copper mines in the Caucasus in December, 1916, he was caught in the tide of revolution. Finally, in company with three United States citizens, one of them a woman, and an English woman, he made his way from the Black Sea to the Arctic, traveling in box cars, by horse and on the rivers, mostly at night.

He has also written two historical books, dealing with the copper industry of the Clifton-Morenci district of Arizona.

Victoria are divided into five divisions—each division has its own special work to do and its own special district, and overlapping is carefully guarded against.

It is estimated by authorities that for every nonpaying patient kept out of hospital, $1,000 a year is saved to the community. This can be done by providing medical care and nursing services in the home, as is given by the V.O.N. which is one of the organizations supported by the Community Chest.

Beautiful Blooms

Local Horticulturists

Japanese chrysanthemum growers of Greater Victoria are receiving hearty congratulations on their display of magnificent blooms in the former Angus Campbell store on Government Street, where the show will continue this evening, tomorrow and Thursday.

It is one of the finest exhibitions ever staged by members of the Victoria Japanese Amateur Chrysanthemum Growers' Society. The size of many of the blooms are amazing. Many new varieties are to be seen, in rare color combinations.

F. A. Saunders, head gardener of the Empress Hotel, and C. S. McTavish judged the many entries yesterday, and this morning each was tagged with its prize ribbon.

The types of flowers range from the great shaggy and cactus variety "mums," with two and three

Strike Vote By Air Mechanics

Union Rejects Boeing Airplane Company's Wage-cut Proposals

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—A strike vote will be taken Saturday by members of Aeronautical Mechanics' Union 751 as result of the union's rejection last night of a wage proposal presented by the Boeing Airplane Company, I. A. Sandvigen, union business agent, said today.

The union, by a vote of 432 to 85, refused to accept the proposal, terms of which were not made public. Sandvigen said about 1,800 employees of the Boeing plant are members of the American Federation of Labor union.

He said one of the principal points of difference in the wage dispute was the company's proposal that overtime pay be reduced from double time to time and a half.

Urge Force to Stop Bombings

LONDON (CP-Havas)—Use of force to stop the bombing of British vessels in Spanish government ports was advocated in a statement made public last night by shipowners trading with Spain, who will send a delegation to discuss the situation with Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax Thursday.

Pointing out 11 British vessels have been attacked in Spanish waters since the four-power Munich accord, the shipowners said they did not desire the British Government to adopt a policy which would endanger world peace.

They added that since good relations exist between London and Rome, and since Prime Minister Chamberlain and Chancellor Hitler signed a statement emphasizing the desire of their peoples never to fight each other, the use of force to end the bombings should not bring objections from either Italy or Germany.

Around The Docks

BOATS BACK ON ROUTES
With the return of Ss. Princess Joan to the Victoria-Vancouver run last night after completing repairs and the resumption of Ss. Princess Elizabeth tonight after being released from drydock following overhaul, Canadian Pacific coast sailings are back to normal today.

The work on both the Princess Elizabeth and Princess Joan was carried out by the Victoria Machinery Depot Ltd. This afternoon Ss. Princess Marguerite, which has been relieving Princess Joan on the gulf night run, returned to the triangle route, sailing at 4.30 for Seattle. This released Ss. Princess Charlotte, which is now laid up at the Belleville Street docks.

N.Y.K. SHIP IN

Delayed by gale weather offshore and fog on the coast, Ms. Heian Maru, of Nippon Yusen Kaisha, made William Head at 9.30 this morning from Japan, and after getting pratique proceeded about 10 to Vancouver. William Harold, of the local N.Y.K. office, boarded the liner at quarantine and went on to Vancouver with her to arrange for transfer of eastbound passengers. Heian Maru had aboard 37 passengers for Vancouver and 50 for Seattle. Cargo for Vancouver discharge and overland delivery totaled 2,850 tons and included 294 packages of raw silk and silk goods.

GROVE TONIGHT

Capt. J. Griffiths will bring Ms. Pacific Grove into port about 7 tonight, according to King Bros., local agents for the Furness (Pacific) Line. The British motorship finished discharging at Seattle this morning and was posted to leave the Puget Sound port around noon for Victoria. She has some 400 tons of freight for discharge at Victoria and Vancouver, proceeding to the latter port after completing at the Riffth docks.

DALHANNA DUE

British freighter Dalhanna, which has been loading lumber at Port Tasis, is due to leave the west coast port tonight for Victoria and will be at the Canadian National docks for loading early tomorrow morning.

The Daldorch, completing loading 700,000 feet here, is listed to sail tonight for Port Tasis and will later complete at Port Alberni.

SEVEN NEW CHARTERS

Seven new charters are announced by the Seaboard Shipping Company Ltd. for British Columbia loading. Six of these vessels will load lumber and general for United Kingdom ports and one will take lumber and logs to Australia.

British Ss. Hadleigh is expected in B.C. waters October 27, followed one day later by Ss. Apple-dore. Ss. Umberleigh is due October 30, Ss. Winkfield November 8, Ss. Hawby November 9, Greek Ss. George M. Embiricos November 10 and Ss. Lady Glanely November 15.

British carrier Loch Maddy is listed for November 12 to load for Australia.

COMING FROM MONTREAL

Laden with eastern Canadian cargo, Ss. Uffington Court, routed from Montreal via the Panama Canal, will reach Victoria on Friday, it was learned here today. Uffington Court is coming here in the service of the Vancouver-St. Lawrence Line. After completing discharge of her Montreal cargo the vessel will load lumber for the United Kingdom under charter to Canadian Transport Company Ltd.

Other ship coming here are Ss. Niceto de Larriaga, sailing from Montreal November 1 and Ms. Cressington Court, leaving the St. Lawrence port November 18.

TARGET PRACTICE

H.M.C.S. Fraser was out in the Straits for a few hours this morning engaged in target practice. The Fraser's gunners directed their fire on a target towed by H.M.C.S. Armentieres.

Both vessels were back in Esquimalt Harbor by midday.

Pilots' Lookout

Stensby left Canadian National docks for Crofton 3 p.m. Ixion, Orion for Vancouver, passed 4.45 a.m. Heian Maru, Japan for Vancouver, passed 10 a.m. Fella, Vancouver for Seattle, passed midnight. Gratston, for Woodfibre, passed 8.30 p.m. Anglo-Canadian, San Pedro for Cowichan Bay, passed 2.15 a.m.

GIRL FOUND MURDERED BEHIND THEATRE—Police of Larchmont, N.Y., are working on the mysterious murder of 17-year-old Mary Coyle, of nearby New Rochelle, N.Y., whose body, with the head battered in, was found behind a Larchmont motion picture theatre. Unable at first to
taking fingerprints.

TANKER'S FUNERAL
PYRE IS SIGNAL TO RESCUE SHIP—The plume

cargo of the oil tanker
E. J. Bullock after she blew up and sank in the Gulf of Mexico, 93 miles off Key West, Fla. It was at once a funeral pyre for the three members of the crew killed and a distress signal which brought another oil ship, the
O. M. Bernuth, in time to rescue the remaining 34 members. At (right) they board

Wheat

WINNIPEG (CP)—Winnipeg wheat futures drifted lower for the second session today due to lack of interest and weakness at Liverpool. At the final bell prices were 1 1/4 to 1 1/2 cent lower, October 60 1/2, November 60 1/2, December 59 1/2 and May 63 to 63 1/2.

Large scale French wheat sales and excellent wheat crop condition in Argentina encouraged liquidity at Liverpool. Outside interest was slow at Winnipeg because no export business could be traced overnight.
